HOME-COMING OPENS HERE SUNDAY

REPLICA OF CHURCH SERVICE FEATURES HOME-COMING START

Pioneer Rites Are Followed; Many Attend Program

Descendants of Tecumseh, famed Shawnee Indian chief, and James Galloway, hardy Greene County pioneer, occupied the same platform in the auditorium of Shawnee Park, Sunday afternoon, when 2,000 people attended the reproduction of a church service of 125 years ago.

Chief Thomas Wildcat Alford, Shawnee, Okla., great-grandson of Tecumseh was the first and Dr. W. A. Galloway, Xenia historian and great-grandson of Rebecca Galloway, whose hand Tecumseh sought in marriage, was chairman of the afternoon's program.

Dr. Galloway, in the opening address, expressed his pleasure that the first service in the new Community Hall, constructed through the generosity of present and former Greene Countians, was one of worship. He recalled the details of the church service of 125 years ago, held in the round log cabin of that period.

The first pioneer preachers in Greene County, Dr. Galloway explained, were the Rev. Robert Armstrong and the Rev. Hugh McMillan, who he declared "did more for the people of Greene County than any other individuals."

The chairman introduced Dr. H. B. McElree, who delivered the same sermon that the Rev. Mr. Armstrong delivered to his flock in 1818 and who opened the service by announcing Psalm 50. Dr. Galloway read the Scripture from a Bible 200 years old, and owned by James Boone, brother of Daniel Boone, Greene County pioneer. Mr. Galloway explained that this year was the sesqui-centennial of Daniel Boone's capture by the Shawnee Indians and his escape at Old Chillicothe, now Old Town.

The Rev. D. R. Jamieson, pastor of the Sugar Creek Church, where the service duplicated Sunday was held, pronounced the prayer.

The collection, which was presented to Chief Alford to help defray the expense of publishing his translation of the Bible into the Shawnee language for his people in the West, was taken by the "pole and poke" method, small black bags being fastened to long poles to hold the money.

Deacons and elders of the Sugar Creek U. P. Church, descendants of the early Scotch Associates, took the collection. The congregation of the Sugar Creek Church, which has been in continuous existence since 1804, when the Scotch Associates built the first log church there, attended the service in a body, and acted as the pioneer congregation. Edwin Galloway, this city as "precentor" lined out the hymns by the old-fashioned method.

The Rev. Mr. McElree, pastor of Second U. P. Church, Xenia, read the outline of the sermon, preached by the Rev. Mr. Armstrong, pastor of the Massies Creek Associated Church, April 18, 1818, which had been written in long hand by James Galloway and preserved by his descendants and is now in the possession of Dr. W. A. Galloway.

BELIEVE FOUR ARE DROWNING VICTIMS

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 27.—Search for three companions of William Schornbeck, 38, drowned in Lake Erie when he fell out of a power boat eight miles from here late yesterday, was being organized today following the non-appearance of the youths whose names are not learned.

According to reports brought in by a fisherman, Schornbeck and the three boys were fishing when Schornbeck lost his balance and lunged overboard, sinking almost instantly.

It was believed the youths then cruised about in an effort to recover the drowned man's body and that they would return here if darkness overtook them before they succeeded.

Anxiety gave way to fear and a searching party was organized today, however, as hours went by and no report was received of the ill-fated fishing party.

CALIFORNIA FIRES DESTROY FORESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—Hundreds of fire fighters were still battling blazes today which were eating into valuable timber lands in northern California. Many new blazes have been ignited by sparks and lightning and forestry officials are prescribing every available means for the fire lines.

After an 18-hour battle 500 men, including many prominent Californians on vacation, a fire which threatened to destroy the Brock-

TORNADO KILLS TWO; IOWA SUFFERS LOSS

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Aug. 27.—Two persons were killed and at least fifteen injured when a tornado swept four southwestern Iowa counties, it was learned today. Farm homes were wrecked, crops seriously damaged and livestock and poultry killed.

Wire communication with the stricken area still was down this morning.

At Elliott, bodies of James H. Jervis and his three-year-old son were removed from the debris of their farm home. Mrs. Jervis was reported in a critical condition.

The town of Oakland in Pottawattamie County, not far from here, was hard hit. A church and other buildings were reported in ruins.

The storm tore its way through Mills, Pottawattamie, Cass and northern of the wind-swept area—hail followed. Hail-stones as large as twelve inches in circumference were reported.

REPORT FIVE DROWN IN FLOODS AFTER NEW YORK CLOUDBURST

Twenty Others Reported Missing; Heavy Property Damage Sustained; Streams Swollen By Heavy Rainfall.

ELLENVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Floods resulting from a cloudburst were today believed to have taken a toll of at least five lives.

Property damage is tremendous. Many bridges have been washed away and twenty persons were reported missing. Communication has been disrupted and it is feared the flood toll may be greater.

Charles Lapery, 50, of Paterson, N. J., was drowned when he attempted to escape from his automobile when it was engulfed by the swirling waters on a road near here, according to Chief of Police Ross.

Lapery was accompanied by an unnamed companion who reached higher ground in safety. His body was not recovered early today.

At Montella, N. Y., according to the Ellenville police, a man named Blatt was drowned after carrying his crippled wife to safety. The bungalow of the drowned man was in the direct path of the raging current.

Three persons were reported drowned near Accord when their automobile was overturned by the swollen waters of a creek near the road upon which they were traveling. According to reports a bridge over the creek was washed out and the driver attempted to ford the small stream but miscalculated its depth and velocity. All three were trapped in the car.

Thirty five boys stranded on an island in Roundout Creek were rescued early today. They are members of the Junior Naval Reserve in the care of a man named Zinner.

The Roundout Creek, according to nearby residents, is about twenty feet beyond its depth. The boys were huddled together at the highest part of the island. Until early this morning attempts to reach the island were futile because of the velocity of the stream and darkness.

Between 400 and 500 guests of the Napanoch Country Club were rescued by boats when the Roundout Creek surrounded the club's buildings. Many houses of the village of Napanoch in the path of the rising waters suffered extensive damage and their occupants were forced to flee to higher ground.

The cloudburst occurred late yesterday. Water came down in sheets and all streams for miles around began to rise immediately. Much damage was done at Liberty but the police chief denied reports of injuries there.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 27.—Vaine Kramer, 30, Columbus, Hocking Valley Railroad fireman, was dead today and twelve persons injured, one seriously, as the result of a head-on collision between a passenger train and a northbound freight, three miles south of Walbridge near here, yesterday.

The injured, Engineer William Spaeth, Columbus, (seriously hurt); F. E. Kosmick, Detroit; Mrs. P. P. Coverdale, Toledo; Mrs. Russell A. Walkey, Lancaster, O.; Mrs. Charles R. Griffith, Cleveland; R. C. Cohen, Detroit; Miss Helen Field, Columbus; Mrs. A. H. Field, Lansing, Mich.; Margaret Oakfield, Columbus; R. K. Sheldon, Columbus; A. Wheat, Detroit, John Williams, Detroit.

With the exception of Spaeth, none of the injured received more than a severe shaking up and slight bruises.

The passenger train left Toledo for Columbus at 4:30 a. m. at the time a dense fog obscured vision from the engine cabs, and this was blamed for the collision which occurred when the freight pulled out of a siding and crashed into the southbound passenger train.

Both locomotives were wrecked, but only one passenger car left the rails.

The freight was carrying air-plane equipment for the Antarctic expedition of Commander Richard E. Byrd. The equipment was badly damaged.

THREE DROWN WHEN BOAT OVERTURNS

SANDUSKY, O., Aug. 27.—Three men were drowned when an outboard motorboat in which they were riding overturned in Lake Erie, between Northbass Island and Sugar Island, late last night, it was learned here today.

The victims were: Al Kessler, 34, and Carl Kessler, 23, brothers of Sandusky, and William O'Malley, 30, of Middlebass Island. Ted Sanderson, of Northbass Island, the fourth member of the party, was rescued, unconscious, but resuscitated and was recovering from his injuries.

BRIDE'S IRATE DAD BEATS JUDGE

Enraged because Probate Judge George W. Folmer performed a marriage ceremony for the 15-year-old daughter of E. A. Conn, of Olathe, Kas., Conn "beat up" the judge, according to charges on which the father was jailed. Folmer, whose bruised features are shown in inset, has only one arm. Mr. and Mrs. William Mashburn, the young couple whose marriage caused the rumpus, also are shown.

BUILDING WRECKED BY MYSTERY BLAST

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 27.—Thousands of persons bound for work down town today gathered in front of the R. Kirschbaum building to view the damage done by a mysterious explosion that wrecked the building and damaged adjoining structures. First estimates placed the loss at more than $100,000.

Shattered glass from show and office windows stood nearly a foot deep in the street in front of the buildings. Special police details held back the crowd at a distance. Harold Witwolt, 22, was found terribly burned in an alley behind the Kirschbaum building. His condition is critical.

Pierson Cecil O. Richardson and R. C. Wallace were cut, bruised and burned in fighting a fire that followed the blast.

CHICAGO HEIGHTS PAPER IS BOMBED

CHICAGO, O., Aug. 27.—Chicago Heights, a suburb on the southwestern fringe of Chicago, was in an uproar today over gangland's latest and boldest challenge to law and order.

It was the bombing of the village newspaper, the Chicago Heights Star, an organ that has been active in fighting crime in that district. Practically the entire front of the two-story plant was blown away. Dynamite apparently was the explosive used.

King Williams, part owner and editor of the paper, positive state that the bombing was the result of the paper's editorial policy. The paper opposed the vile, gang administration and has been conducting an expose of the gangster-bootlegger-criminal element, Williams said.

Friday night, Ross had a narrow escape from death when intruders turned on gas jets in his home and threw off a main switch, cutting off the electricity. Ross stepped into the house later, pressed an electric light button and when there was no light, was about to strike a match when a neighbor, Mrs. Belle Hendershot, seized his arm and told him she smelled gas.

ANNUAL OHIO STATE FAIR OPENS MONDAY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 27.—Billed by the management as "the world's greatest agricultural exposition," the Ohio State Fair swung open its doors here today and launched initial attractions of a program scheduled to extend over a period of eight days.

C. V. Truax, state director of agriculture, and E. H. Campbell, president of state board of agriculture, who delivered brief addresses prior to the official opening, voiced their belief that the largest state fair crowds on record will attend the exposition.

Representing a more comprehensive, art, industry, commerce, culture, racing and live stock than aviation, art and live stock than has ever been attempted, this year's fair is a $5,000,000 institution, exposition officials declared.

Today has been officially designated as "Columbus Day" and at least 300,000 children were flocking to the fair, to participate in various athletic contests.

Racing events were to feature the afternoon's program. Turf fans evinced considerable interest in the card which included a 2:25 trot, purse $1,200; a 2:15 pace, purse $1,000, and a 2:15 pace.

ENVOYS OF FIFTEEN NATIONS SIGN PACT OUT-LAWING WARS

Solemnity Marks Formal Agreement In Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Through the signing of a multilateral treaty renouncing military force as an instrument of national policy, fifteen nations, representing two-thirds of the world's fighting power, agreed today never again to go to war. The rest of the world was invited to take the same pledge.

The scene of this historic event was the Salles Des Horloges in the French foreign office on the Quai D'Orsay, where the League of Nations was born under the sponsorship of Woodrow Wilson, then president of the United States.

The participants in the ceremony composed the most distinguished group of plenipotentiaries since the signing of the Versailles peace treaty.

The solemnity of the occasion was reflected in the attitude of the signatories themselves and the few hundred fortunate persons who were able to gain admittance to the great hall.

Frank B. Kellogg, American secretary of state, who carried on negotiations for the treaty, was one of the outstanding figures at the conference. Next to him stood Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who had originally proposed an anti-war treaty.

In keeping with the spirit of the occasion there was no military display. The nearest approach to it was the presence on the Quai D'Orsay of the Garde Republicaine.

TWO ARRESTED IN PROBE OF HOMICIDE

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Two men today are being held in connection with the mysterious slaying of Stanley Kaczmark, 35. Kaczmark was found in Brooklyn yesterday with his throat cut. Police arrested Emil Mickel, 43, and Edward Hallstrom, 50, both of Brooklyn, on charges of homicide in connection with Kaczmark's death.

Mickel, police said, declared that his automobile stopped in front of Anthony Agunisch's home, and Kaczmark and Hallstrom got out to get Agunisch. Mickel, the police assert, said Hallstrom returned to the car alone, and stated that Kaczmark was missing. Mickel started the car, he said, and while members of the party were looking for Kaczmark, they found his body.

Will Test Sanity
SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 27.—While Governor Smith was being closely guarded today a sanity test was to be given to Thomas Connahan, twenty-two, Philadelphia electrician, who attempted to force his way into the governor's suite in the Monmouth Hotel at 1:30 a. m.

It was learned today, as police questioned Connahan, that the Philadelphia electrician also had planned to get a "personal interview" with Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee.

As in the case of Governor Smith, Connahan said, he wished "to see if Hoover were a fit man to be president."

Connahan was to be examined by County Physician Clayton. He was held in $1,000 bail after arraignment, and is at the Monmouth County Jail.

Following Connahan's arrest, police searched his bag, but found only some fishing tackle and a typewriter. He had no weapon.

Another afternoon feature will be the state-wide competition of fiddlers, dancers and harmonica players. Although a "Columbus Day" event, this contest embraces entries from all parts of the state.

An aircraft show, second of its kind as a state fair feature, will be open throughout the day. Modern day aircraft entered by the army and navy, as well as a number of commercial planes will be on display.

Of interest to art students, artists and critics, is the all-Ohio art exhibit which will open every afternoon and evening during the week.

FESS HEARD HERE

Senator S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, explained the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war, which was being signed by the powers Monday at the night home-coming meeting in the Shawnee Park auditorium Sunday night.

DAYTON MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT; FOUR OTHERS HURT

John Mitchell, Colored, Crushed Fatally In Collision

One man was killed and four others hurt, not seriously, in a peculiar auto accident at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night on the Xenia and Jamestown Pike, one and one-half miles west of Jamestown.

John Mitchell, 39, colored, 1862 Lakeview Ave., Dayton, O., died from a crushed chest and with both legs broken below the hips thirty minutes after the crash. Peter Mitchell, father of the dead man, received a cut over the right eye which required one stitch to close.

Others injured were: William Ringer, Xenia, cut about the face; Clarence Jones, Xenia, lacerations on face and arms; Jacob Sessler, farmer, near Jamestown, minor lacerations and a dislocated thumb.

Mitchell was fatally injured when an auto driven by Clarence Ryan, W. Second St., Xenia, crashed into the rear end of the Mitchell machine, which was being pushed along the road.

Mitchell, his father and three other colored men, who escaped unhurt, were driving to Jamestown to attend a moonlight church picnic.

Near Jamestown, their auto ran over of soil and water. They borrowed some from Sessler. When the motor refused to start Sessler helped the five push it along the road.

Ryan said he did not observe the Mitchell car until too late to avoid the crash. He is said to have declared the Mitchell car displayed no tail light and that this together with the fact that the headlights on an auto approaching him from the opposite direction blinded him, was responsible for his failure to notice the stalled machine.

Mitchell was walking behind the car and may have observed a view of the tail light if it was burning. Ryan said he swerved his auto but the colored man was caught between the cars, Sessler was hurled into a field.

Ryan's car continued into a ditch, crashed through a hedge and came to a stop in a field. William Ringer was thrown through the windshield. A Xenia youth known as "Ace" Sturgeon and a fifth boy, whose name was not learned, were unhurt.

Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, arrived too late to render aid to the dying man. Sheriff Oliver Tate and Coroner F. M. Chambliss were also called to the scene. The body was removed to the Johnson and Watkins funeral parlors in Xenia and taken to Dayton Sunday by Jones Bros. Dayton undertakers.

Ryan was not held. Coroner Chambliss will hold an inquest Monday evening.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 27.—Coroner Edwin C. Ganzhorn was investigating today the hanging of an unidentified man about 60. The body was found suspended from the limb of a tree about a mile from the city.

According to officers, the body had been hanging for at least three months. The man had been fairly well dressed. His cap has a Star, O. mark.

HUGE CROWD GREET SENATOR FESS WHEN HE EXPLAINS TREATY

Hundreds Overflow New Auditorium; Weather Smiles

Climaxing international efforts toward world peace, the Kellogg Treaty, designed in the interest of outlawing war, is to be signed Monday by fifteen countries, including the six most powerful nations of the earth, explained United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, in an address which featured the community service in connection with the opening of the Home-Coming celebration Sunday night in the newly-completed open-air pavilion in Shawnee Park.

Addressing an audience of Xenia residents and Home-Comers estimated at more than 1,500 people, Senator Fess said this item is of greatest international interest at present. The treaty consists of two substantive articles.

"This is the climax of international efforts toward world peace. The United States has stood as a leader in the movement to limit armaments as the surest guarantee against aggression war. After the Washington Limitation of Arms Conference, our next step was to reduce our own army to the minimum, the conference's action being limited to the navy. Our example was not followed by Europe, led by France, which pleaded the lack of a treaty of security as a necessary condition of limitation.

"After the failure of the tripartite treaty of 1919, the quadruple treaty of 1922, the quintuple proposal of 1924, largely through the influence of an American diplomat, the Locarno conference was held, and the security treaty signed and ratified. This was the basis for the American proposal of arm limitation in the Geneva Conference of last summer.

"It was a shocking disappointment when France, seconded by Italy, rejected our proposal. To somewhat soften the hurt, which France felt on account of her rejection of the proposal of the United States to outlaw by resolution in a form of a treaty between the two countries was submitted by France.

"While there is little basis for hope of completely outlawing war by resolution, in the clang of arms, the munitions plants, it would be valuable in directing the public mind towards channels of peace in building up a body of opinion against war. Any effort resulting in an aggressive attitude

SELECT JURY FOR LEO KELLEY TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 27.—Selection of the jury to try Leo P. Kelley, the "handsome butcher" charged with slaying Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, society matron, was expected to be completed by noon today. Eight women and three men have been tentatively accepted by both sides.

Frank Mellus, wealthy sportsman and husband of Mrs. Mellus, is scheduled to be the first witness called. It is Mellus who disclosed the body of his wife upon returning from a fishing trip. He called police who found Kelly hiding in a closet of the house.

Kelley, who admits that he had been an admirer of Mrs. Mellus for the past five years, denies any knowledge of the slaying. He said he hid in the closet when he heard footsteps at the front door.

Both defense and prosecution have retained women attorneys to assist in the case.

KILLED BY BANDITS WHEN FOOT SLIPPED

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Ben Benjamin, 33, is dead from bandit bullets because his foot slipped.

Benjamin, who runs a street carnival, was returning to his home early today with Max Kleiger and Sam Gluskin, associated with him in the carnival, when a car drove alongside and waved a revolver from the running board of the second car and commanded the carnival men to halt.

Benjamin, who was driving, became so excited, that he put on the brakes, halted momentarily and then his foot slipped on the clutch, and the car jerked forward. Instantly five shots were sent in his direction, one inflicting a mortal wound in his chest and another going through Gluskin's hat, barely grazing his hat.

HUGE CROWD GREETSENATOR FESS WHEN HE EXPLAINS TREATY

of public mind against war as an effort of settling disputes is of great value and a forward looking step which should be respected and supported by the peaceful nations.

"Because of this fact our government last April expressed its approval in case the treaty be made multilateral instead of unilateral. France agreed to extend its operations if limited to aggressive war. In view of the fact that no nation ever admits its total limitation and pressed the necessity of including all wars if effectual results were desirable.

"Tomorrow the treaty will be signed, first signed by the United States, and then followed by fourteen other countries representing what are known to be all the great powers of earth. It will then be left open to be signed by all other nations who desire to join in the effort.

"While the treaty is not a guarantee against war, it is the greatest moral step in that direction that can today be taken. It is a pledge that war will not be resorted to except in self-defense. It should prevent secret agreements heretofore a breeder of wars, and realize national ambitions. In lieu of the failure to induce European countries to limit their armies as we have already done, as the one substantial way to lessen the dangers of war, if not to guarantee against them, it may be the first step in that direction which will be inevitable if a nation continues to be an economic force in the world. In this sense the Kellogg treaty gives promise of becoming a great stride forward toward world peace. It is another page in the superb record of America in her ambition to lead the world to higher levels."

Senator Fess opened his speech with an enthusiastic tribute to Xenia and Greene County, complimenting Xenians on their civic spirit as exemplified in the Home-Coming celebration and the erection of the new auditorium in Shawnee Park.

"A true gauge of human progress is the organized movement on behalf of community welfare. There have been individual efforts in the past largely confined to relief work. These efforts have given to the world the great names of Nightingale, Barton, and many others. In time the cause called into being the Red Cross movement, which is already world wide in its scope and achievement."

"Not until after the World War did the modern movement of community welfare, operating upon lines of constructive sympathy, claim attention. The movement of the 'community chest' for relief work among the indigent was a distinct and far-reaching community program for relief. That effort was supplemented by the constructive organization looking to build into the life of the community a sentiment of community interest for the advancement of the best in that community, where individual impulse to do good passes over into general co-operation in the interest of the public good, where each is for all and all for each."

"No better example can be found than here in Xenia with its well-known conservative population, where such a beautiful park has been supplied, in which are held various meetings of town-interest, and now at great expense opens this splendid amphitheater with the ambitious Home-Coming program, with the attendance of men and women of note, not confined to Greene Countians, but includes visitors of renown representing various arms of the government at Washington and elsewhere. Our state and nation are to be congratulated upon such movements for community advancement."

Dr. John C. Acheson, president of Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., presided at the evening program and introduced the speaker.

A feature of the musical program was the playing of the Hallelujah chorus by Kyle Dunkel and Edward Hart, both of New York and church organists of note, at one piano, and Mrs. Stella Bishop Allen and Miss Marjorie Street at another piano. They played the accompaniment for the singing.

Messrs. Dunkel and Hart are both former Greene Countians and are visiting relatives here during the Home-Coming.

The community service opened with singing by the congregation and music by the community choir under the direction of Mrs. W. H. McGervey. Prayer was offered by the Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, followed by congregational singing and the address by Senator Fess.

The program closed with the Doxology by the congregation and the benediction delivered by the Rev. H. B. McElree, pastor of the Second U. P. Church.

The new community house where the service was held was filled to overflowing. Normally built to accommodate 1,200 people, several hundred more persons, unable to find seats, stood on the outside through the service. Workmen under Harry Sparks, who designed the building and supervised construction, completed the building Saturday in record breaking time.

Fair weather helped make the home-coming opening auspicious.

The Next First Ladies?

Mrs. Alfred E. Smith (right) and Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson, wives of the Democratic standard-bearers, were among 2,500 women who attended party reception at big New York hotel. The meeting was called by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, vice-chairman of the national committee in charge of women's activities.

PARADE TUESDAY EXPECTED TO BE FEATURE OF HOME-COMING

The "Merchants' Manufacturers' and Farmers' Parade," scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, is expected to be one of the outstanding features of the Home-Coming.

Four cash prizes totalling $105 are being offered for prize-winning floats. These include: First prize of $40 for the float best representative of its line of business; second prize of $25 for the most artistically decorated float; third prize of $20 for the best decorated auto from the auto dealers of Greene County; fourth prize of $20 for the best decorated float of farm produce.

The parade will include all the merchants, manufacturers, business men and farmers of Greene County. Each line of business should be represented and every entrant is asked to decorate his auto.

The entrants will assemble at Main and Columbus Sts. The column will move south on Columbus to Second St.; west on Second to West St.; north on West to Main St.; east on Main to Monroe St.; north on Monroe to Market St.; west on Market to West St.; north on West to Church St.; east on Church to Detroit St. boulevard and around the Shawnee Park drive to Edison Ave.

PAST MASTERS OF GRANGE HONORED

Greene County Pomona Grange held its August meeting with Pleasant Grange at Bowersville, Thursday. The regular morning business session was topped by an elaborate covered dish luncheon.

The program in the afternoon was as follows: song by the Grange, entitled "Feeding the Nation"; reading by Mrs. Maywood Turner of Miami Grange, entitled "Cleaning Up." Rev. Frank Gordon of Jamestown Grange gave an interesting address on "Why the Farmer is Usually a Good Citizen," followed by a song by the Grange, entitled "My Old Rural Home" and a talk by the lecturer Mrs. Elsie J. Campbell, entitled "How You Can Make Fifty Per Cent Profit From Your Laying Hens."

This talk was followed by an impressive service in honor of the past Pomona masters of Greene County, who were honor guests of the occasion. Albert Burrell of Xenia Grange was presented with a bouquet of gladioli in recognition of his being the oldest past Pomona master living. Guy H. Gordon, present master who is also a past master also received honors.

WOMEN'S LONGING
Tell me what is that only thing
For which all women long;
Yet, having what they most desire,
To have it does them wrong?

'Tis not to be chaste, nor fair,
(Such gifts malice may impair),
Richly trimmed, to walk or ride,
Or to wanton unspied,
To preserve an honest name
And so to give it up to fame—
These are toys. In good or ill
They desire to have their will:
Yet, when they have it, they
abuse it,

For they know not how to use it.

SHOOTS WOLF IN OHIO VILLAGE

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—The pet of a full grown wolf, shot within the limits of Euclid village near here is to be presented to the Cleveland Museum of Natural history here.

Patrolman Edward Ryberg bagged the wolf after numerous reports of chicken and domestic rabbit thefts.

Early in the morning the patrol man saw the wolf slinking across the fields and killed it with a charge from a shotgun. The animal weighed sixty pounds.

The wolf's presence in that vicinity remains unexplained, though it was pointed out that it could have crossed from Canada during the past winter.

INJURED WHEN TWO AUTOS CRASH SUNDAY

Orville Hollingsworth, Bowersville, had an artery in his knee severed and received severe bruises when he was thrown through a windshield, after the auto in which he was an occupant collided with a car occupied by William Thompson and David Victor, Loab, Ky., on the Jamestown-Washington Pike, seven miles east of Jamestown, Sunday evening.

Hollingsworth was riding with Eber Johnson, Edgefield, owner of the car. Johnson, Thompson and Victor were unhurt. The Johnson machine was badly damaged.

Hollingsworth and Johnson were driving toward Jamestown and the accident occurred when the second car attempted to pass, going in the same direction, and hooked fenders. The Kentucky car was undamaged. Thompson and Victor paid the cost of the damages.

which saluted each of the foreign ministers and ambassadors as he arrived at the foreign office.

Inside the Salle Des Horloges, the signatories took their places around a large horse shoe shaped table covered with red baize.

M. Briand and Mr. Kellogg had places at the top and center of the table. Chief interest centered upon these two men who had inaugurated and carried out the plan for a world treaty renouncing war.

It was a historic moment as the delegates faced these two statesmen who had labored ceaselessly for fifteen months to bring about this peace pact.

At 3 o'clock Foreign Minister Briand formally called the brilliant assemblage to order, and welcomed the plenipotentiaries on behalf of the government of France. He described briefly the efforts that had gone into the making of the treaty about to be signed and then called for the reading of the document itself.

Both the English and French texts were read, and although the statesmen gathered about the big red horseshoe knew each word and phrase as well as they knew their own names, they leaned forward to catch every word of the 800 odd words.

First were recited the names of the monarchs or presidents of the fifteen nations adhering to the treaty and then began the actual text:

"Deeply sensible of their solemn duty to promote the welfare of mankind;

"Persuaded that the time has come when a frank renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy should be made to the end that the peaceful and friendly relations now existing between their peoples may be perpetuated;

"Convinced that all changes in their relations with one another should be sought only by pacific means and be the result of a peaceful and orderly process, and that any signatory power which shall hereafter seek to promote its national interests by resort to war should be denied the benefits furnished by this treaty;

"Hopeful that, encouraged by their example, all the other nations of the world will join in this humane endeavor and by adhering to the present treaty as soon as it comes into force, bring their peoples within scope of its beneficent provisions."

For the first time in sixty-one years Germany will be represented at a diplomatic conference here by her foreign minister, Dr. Gustave Stresemann, acting in behalf of Germany will be the first to sign the treaty. Secretary Kellogg will follow for the United States. The other signatures will come in the following order:

Paul Hymans, Belgian foreign minister.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister.

Lord Cushenden, representing the British foreign minister. He will also sign for northern Ireland and India.

MacKenzie King, prime minister of Canada.

Senator McLachlan, representing the Australian prime minister.

Sir C. J. Parr, for New Zealand.

J. S. Smith, Union of South Africa.

Count Mazoni, Italian ambassador to France.

August Saleski, Polish minister to France.

Edouard Benes, Czechoslovakian foreign minister.

Room in Your Home

COLOR is the newest note in decoration. Home makers are transforming dull, drab rooms into sparkling interiors with an almost professional note.

Perhaps in your home there is a chair that could be refinished or a table that could be done over. With a good paint and a little thought wonders can be worked—and there is a McDougall-Butler paint, varnish, enamel or stain for every purpose.

The little book, "Paint and Varnish Facts" suggests many ways of bringing colorful beauty into your home. Ask us for a free copy. You will find in it the answer to all your household refinishing problems.

CLEVELAND WANTS 1929 PLANE RACES

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—Cleveland, often called the "City of Conventions" is making its bid for the national air races in 1929.

The Chamber of Commerce here and the Cleveland branch of the National Aeronautic Association have announced that they will try to bring the big air show to Cleveland.

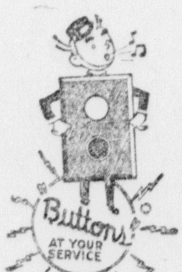

Last year the races were held at Spokane, Wash., and are to be held this year at Los Angeles.

One of the features of the schedule is the transcontinental air race. If Cleveland should be selected for next year's races, re-

LeVally Reunion

IS HELD SUNDAY.

The annual reunion of the LeVally family was held Sunday at the Greene County fairgrounds. About 150 relatives and friends enjoyed the delicious dinner at the dining hall and afterward, a short program was held, the following taking part:

Duet, Nina and Dorothy Stephens; reading, Nina Stephens and solo, Mrs. Mary Mendenhall.

A history of the LeVally family was composed and read by Attorney W. A. Paxson, Jamestown; oldest member of the family. The Rev. A. J. Furstenberger, pastor of Xenia U. B. Church, gave a short talk and the program was concluded with remarks and prayer by the Rev. O. P. Bantz, New Providence, Ia.

The same officers were re-elected for another year with the exception of the secretary, Mrs. Myrtle Turner, who succeeds Mrs. Bessie Stephens, who is leaving soon for her new home in Seattle. Miss LeVally was elected assistant secretary. Those present from a distance were: Mrs. Naomi Haines and daughter, Dorothy, Seattle, Wash.; the Rev. and Mrs. O. P. Bantz, New Providence, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. F. R. LeVally, Greenville, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy LeVally, and two sons, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin LeVally, Dunkirk, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bell and son, of Utica, O.

The next reunion will be held in Shawnee Park, the third Sunday in August, 1929.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

ARRANGED BY RELATIVES

Mrs. Carl E. Smith, Eleazer, was pleasantly surprised Sunday, when relatives came with well-filled baskets to remind her of her twentieth birthday.

WEATHER SMILES ON HOME-COMING HERE

The 1928 Greene County Home-Coming, which Xenia is celebrating jointly as the twentieth anniversary of the similar event in 1908 and its own 125th anniversary opened Sunday with fair weather prevailing.

The celebration was inaugurated informally with individual services in the various churches and with former pastors, here for the Home-Coming, preaching the sermons wherever possible. Interesting musical features were also provided.

OLD SHOE DISPLAY

Twenty years are spanned in a shoe display on exhibition in the show windows at the Frazer Shoe Store, E. Main St. In keeping with the Home-Coming theme, shoes worn by men and women in 1908 are contrasted with the styles in 1928. Twenty years ago high shoes were the fashion and the toes were extremely pointed.

Aids Women's Rights

Senora Lucia De Perea Diaz, commissioner from Venezuela on the inter-American commission of women, has come to Washington to participate actively in the affairs of the body.

REV. FURSTENBERGER ASSIGNED TO LEWISBURG, O., PASTORATE

The Rev. A. J. Furstenberger, interest lies in success of the Xenia congregation.

William Dudley, delegate from the Xenia church, pleaded for the return of the Rev. Mr. Furstenberger to the Xenia church. If he accepts the Lewisburg appointment he will fill the pulpit there for the first time Sunday, September 9. By previous arrangement he will fill the local pulpit next Sunday morning as an anniversary service.

The Rev. and Mrs. Furstenberger were married in a United Brethren Church on a Sunday afternoon, twenty-eight years ago and congregation will join them in celebrating the event next Sunday.

This year's Miami Conference session was said to be one of the best in its history, due largely to the reformation of the proposed union of the denomination with the Reformed Church of the United States and the two main branches of the Evangelical Church.

LITTLE ENGINE GROANS BUT PROVES IT'S STILL GOOD, THOUGH 96 YEARS OLD

It took much puffing of steam, chugging of wheels, strewing of cinders and crushed stone on the track, and aid and encouragement lent by the crowds of excited children who lined the right of way, before Engineer John Strine of Baltimore, finally got the tiny pioneer Baltimore and Ohio train off the siding and onto the main line along Washington St., Monday.

The little wheels would slip on the track, and as there was no way of screwing sand to make them hold, like there is on modern engines, the puffing little engine resisted efforts to make it move more than a few feet on the slight up grade. Finally it got under way, and at the rate of about eight miles an hour, and with the gleeful children chasing along, it steamed its way to the main track near the Eavey Co. warehouse.

The little train will make regular trips on the railroad Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and give free rides to the public as long as anybody appears.

Besides Engineer Strine, a conductor, flagman and two brakemen will assist in running the little train and avoiding accidents. Lieutenant J. H. Watts from Captain Vesly's office Dayton and two B and O police sergeants, Davis and Sortman, are part of the force which is seeing that everything and Wednesday the showings will take place at 10:30, 2, 4 and 8 o'clock. The shows are free.

Dr. W. W. Wood superintendent of safety and welfare, is in charge of the motion picture, assisted by J. C. Stewart and George Morris of Monday morning from Baltimore in Baltimore. The men arrived here a private car.

EAST END NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, E. Main St., had as their dinner guests last Thursday the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Young of Topeka, Kansas and Mrs. Bettie Cowels, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bryant of Cincinnati, were the guests Sunday of Mrs. Belle Tibbs, E. Main St.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctor's word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pained—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A VIRTUOUS WOMAN—Who can find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above rubies. The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her.—Prov. 31:10 and 11.

WOULD CANADA JOIN UNITED STATES?

That many Canadians today are of the opinion that Canada will in time break away from Great Britain and attach itself to the United States is brought out by C. F. Jamieson, a Canadian newspaper editor and politician.

"I have talked with many former Canadians who now live in the United States on the question of Canada's future," says Mr. Jamieson. "They openly express the conviction that not only will Canada ultimately break away from the British Empire, but that she will eventually become a part of the United States. There are Canadians, living and doing business in Canada today, who share in those views, although they do not express them in public. I have heard the same expression from Englishmen who have made Canada their home. Men who fought in the World War have said the same thing and I have been there when they said it."

Mr. Jamieson himself doubts whether Canada will ever become a part of this country, but he thinks there is no doubt but what she will eventually break away from the British Empire. The present situation, he says, is too intolerable to continue. Canada has no citizenship of its own, no flag of its own, the Imperial Privy Council in London is its highest court, and it cannot remain at peace with a nation with which Great Britain is at war.

Mr. Jamieson points out in an article in "Plain Talk" that "if my grandfather came to Canada from Fiji and my father was born in Canada, then officialdom insists that I am still a Fijian and marks me as one on its records."

"If Great Britain became involved in a war tomorrow with Japan, for example, Canada would, by force of circumstances and regardless of the wishes of her people in the matter, be at war with Japan, too."

However, concludes this Canadian, the times are changing. "The possibility is that in the portion of the North American Continent which is known as Canada there will evolve a self-governing nation in the fullest sense of the words, a nation free to keep peace, if it so desires, with those against which it has no quarrel, although Great Britain may have one. In matters of legislation and government its own people would be supreme. It would have its own citizenship in theory and in fact. Then the word, Canadian, would mean something. This new Canadianism is rapidly gaining support in Canada itself."

WOMEN HAVE SAME FAULTS

The reason why so many women, now that they have had the vote for more than a decade, remain away from the polls on election day is not because they are women, but because they are members of the human family and subject to the same influences which have made so many men also indifferent to this civic right and duty.

The question is asked how to prevent railroad crossing accidents? Well, best way is not to cross when a train is coming.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

FOOLISH AND TRAGIC

After dancing many hours in an effort to make a perfectly useless record for long-distance dancing, four dancers became temporarily demented. One girl beats and scratches her companion. Another hables senselessly. They are put under restraint. It would be a happier world if all fools were funny. When a fool is not even ridiculous he is a tragic figure, indeed. These marathon dancers do not become demented. They are demented.

NO LOVE RULES

Social workers who think they can make statistics about everything say men have the tendency to let their love affairs die out at the age of 30 or thereabouts. Women, they say, begin all over again after 40. Fact is, nobody, not even a trained social worker, can make rules to fit folks in love. Some behave one way and some another.

CAN YOU LOOK ABOUT?

When you wake up in the morning can you clearly, honestly, without evasion or self-deceit, face the facts in your life? Can you look forward toward what you expect to do without shame or fear or doubt? If there is real contentment in this world it comes from this ability to face all the facts and to proceed calmly, without any make-believe.

QUICK PROMISERS

Do you know any quick and easy promisers? They are always apparently eager to do something for you, and they promise support, attention, service of all sorts. By and by you learn they are late on delivery. They fail to get into production or they are procrastinators or forgetful or selfish. Don't give the quick and easy promiser credit for being thoughtful and unselfish. Watch his ultimate delivery. Watch his production.

HEAT

Now and then you find a man who wears a vest and a medium weight suit all summer and appears to be more comfortable than his coatless friend in mohair and palm beach. Perhaps feeling the heat is more a matter of eating and internal excitement than of mere temperatures. If you let yourself get excited and upset over your work or over anything else, you suffer from the heat. So you will, if you insist on eating rare roast beef and such for lunch. Eat lightly and think in an orderly fashion, and you won't have to adopt extreme dress or spend your time at the drink counter to keep cool.

CORN STORIES

An Indiana farmer announces that his corn grew six inches in 24 hours. He kept track of two stalks from 9 a. m. to one until 9 a. m. the next. That doesn't sound so much like statistics as it does like a challenge to neighboring states to beat the corn or beat the story.

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK.—I have no way of knowing for sure, but New York must have more insomnias than any other place in the world. It is no place to sleep.

There are New York streets where traffic is heavier at night than in daytime, and at some corners traffic cops are on duty around the clock. New York noises never cease; construction goes on day and night, boats whistle the night through in the rivers and the bay, switch engines puff through some of the streets all night, the elevated trains never cease rolling, taxi klaxons rasp more lustily in nocturnal hours, and certainly individual persons wandering in the streets are no more quiet after darkness floods the street canyons.

There is no hour of the day when the person who must have absolute quiet to sleep can get it on Manhattan Isle. Only after the newcomer's brain has adapted itself to going into that subconscious state we call sleep while the car drums throb and the body vibrates with the jars transmitted to even the largest buildings by the eternal movement of the city, does he get any rest.

I know of one man of wealth who never is able to sleep in night time. He doesn't carouse in the nocturnal hours, however, but stays at home. He has his own organist, and occasionally he hires a private orchestra, and invariably he has a program of music in the hours between midnight and dawn. Two secretaries read him books and magazines in the intervals in the music program. When the sun comes out of the ocean he goes to bed. He gets up at 12 or 1 and is at his office at 2. After dinner in the evening, he works in the office he has in his home. His pleasure begins at midnight.

A friend of the man told me that this strange daily program was born of an instinctive fear of the night inculcated in him as a youth by some maiden aunts with whom he lived.

A prosaic room down in Broad street, near Wall, now is the nerve center of the world's radio traffic. Communication men know it as "Radio Central." Seventy or 80 men sit at desks over which hang cards indicating the city to which he sends or receives messages. Reading the cards is like a quick trip around the world—London, Paris, Batavia, Buenos Aires, Berlin, Constantinople, Cape Town, Oslo, Warsaw.

The visitor knows that this station or that is "on the wire" by the slightly flickering stalk of flame sticking up at the back of this desk or that one. The receiving operator types the coded words he hears through his head phone. He sees as well as hears the message at the same time, for at the right of his desk a tape feeds out on which there is a tracing made by a stylus that corresponds to the letters the operator picks up through the phone. This corrects the accuracy of the message. (Each error costs him a fine of one-eighth of his daily pay.)

Operators do not both send and receive. Sending operators are on the opposite side of the room. They have noiseless typewriters which do not print letters but punch narrow paper tapes with the holes, which, when they reach a transmitting machine, automatically send the message to the far point for which it is destined. A round-trip message between New York and Berlin can be transmitted in 70 seconds.

Each of the operators is given a three-year course of training. They work seven hours a day, get a minimum of $250 a month, and have a whole month's vacation each year. The long vacation is necessary because only strong-nerved men keep their jobs, and the work they do wears on the strongest nerves. Machines have taken the place of man, but man still is master of the machines. Radio, accomplishing miraculous wonders every minute from this great station, would be helpless without the commonplace youths sitting about the room.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

I recently asked one of the officers of the General Motors corporation what he thinks has been the chief factor in the amazing success and growth of that company.

"Perhaps," he said, "it is because the business plans are always based on facts instead of on opinions."

If you will quietly observe your neighbors you may note that most people reverse that formula and are more governed by opinions than by facts.

Just ask yourself if some of your strongest beliefs wouldn't be hard to prove. If you're like most people you hold such beliefs not because they rest on facts but simply because you long ago got into the habit of doing so.

HE WRITES BOOK BETWEEN KELLYGRAMS

Writing Kellygrams for Central Press and The Journal is Fred C. Kelly's chief job. But in between time, this gentleman, a farmer, writer of Peninsula, O., and wide open spaces of all over the world, has written another new book—"But on the Other Hand"—and, in addition, he has articles in Cosmopolitan and The Nation's Business. Kellygrams are popular not only because of their quality, but because they get at the nub of a question immediately.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

A bunion, that most painful of foot ills, is caused by cruel pressure on the main joints of the great and little toes. If it is not promptly attended to, it may cause permanent disfigurement.

Low heels are essential to effect the cure, and you must also wear a shoe broad enough to prevent all pressure. Painting the inflamed joint with clear tincture of iodine is very good. Guard the affected part from any further pressure by a large ring of felt, chamois, or the manufactured bunion plasters. An excellent bunion lotion consists of tincture of iodine 2 drams, tincture of belladonna 2 drams.

Paint the joint with this lotion, using a camel's hair brush, twice a day, or 10 grains of salicylic acid in 4 drams of petrolatum may be applied for several days. Then soak the foot in hot water and remove the crust. Constant care and attention will prevent the bunion from reaching an acute stage.

Callouses are out next consideration. Daily rubbing of all surfaces showing the tendency to callouses will discourage them. For the purpose use a pumice stone or a nail file. If you use the pumice, dip the stone in a solution of carbonate of potash will increase the efficiency of the treatment.

Callouses can be removed by applying a 20 per cent salicylic acid plaster for two or three days, or by soaking the foot in a hot bath of one-half ounce sodium bicarbonate to two quarts of water and then scraping away the softened part, repeating as often as necessary to entirely remove the callous.

Rubbing the soles at night, after a good warm foot bath, with pure castor oil will also be found tremendously helpful. In fact, I have found the remedy is one a great many women never forsake. There is a great amount of the healing, soothing element in castor oil. If you purchase the odorless variety it will be less unpleasant to use, and when leaving it on overnight you can protect the bedclothing and sheets by wrapping your feet in wide muslin strips.

The ordinary cold cream is not to be advocated for general use in correcting foot ills, but the cream based on pasteurized milk has the advantage of being greaseless, but remarkably soothing and healing as well.

Milk, you know, is unexcelled as a soothing, softening agent for the skin. Its presence in any foot-cream makes it invaluable.

Corns, callouses and bunions can all be corrected in their early stages. Don't neglect them!

CAN YOU KEEP COOL?

To date we've had some sizzling weather and no doubt will have more here in the East and South. Fortunately, for me, I vacation during the hottest spell in New York. There are days in California when the temperature steps up pretty lively, but as the humidity is low there the heat is not so oppressive. The well-worn phrase "It isn't the heat; it's the humidity," has a good foundation, for a high degree of moisture in the air does prevent the free evaporation of the perspiration and so causes more retention of body heat. Then in California the evenings are always cool, no matter what the daytime temperature is.

Well, we can't all be in California. So I had better give you some suggestions to help you keep comfortable during the hot spell.

Hint No. 1—Discard all clothing that the law will permit. This applies to children and babies particularly.

Hint No. 2—Overweight, or underweight, eat less meat, and eat more salads and fruit. The high protein foods have more waste heat to be eliminated by the body, therefore they make you warmer. Eat less meat, fish, egg whites, and also eat the rich pastries and fatty and oily foods. Get a large share of your protein in milk, in various forms and cheese, preferably cottage cheese, for that matter. Don't eat large meals.

Hint No. 3—Take a cold bath a dozen times a day, if you can. If you have a weak heart, your physician may tell you to be careful of this advice. Any quick shock has to be avoided in such cases. But you can take cold sponge baths.

Hint No. 4—If you have an electric fan, keep it busy. Air in motion is more cooling.

Hint No. 5—If you have to be out of doors, keep on the shady side of the street, or carry a sun umbrella.

Hint No. 6—Don't run after street cars or anything else. Do as little physical work as possible.

Hint No. 7—If it is so hot at night that you can't sleep, wring a towel out of cold water and lay over yourself. The evaporation of the water cools you off.

I don't take cold by any of these measures I am advising, and I don't believe you will.

Hint No. 8—If you are a woman, have your hair bobbed if you haven't already. It's comfortable, cool, comely and clean.

Irrespective of what the hair-dressers, false hair and hairpin manufacturers say, it hasn't gone out of fashion nor never will.

Hint No. 9—Don't get excited about the heat. Keep cool with calmness.

ONE MINUTE SERMON
Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you.

Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten. Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days.—James, I-2.

Commit thy way unto the Lord: trust also in him, and he shall bring it to pass.

Baked Pot Roast with Vegetables

Endive Salad

Brown Bread and Butter

Sliced Peaches

Baked pot roast with vegetables is hearty, so I am advocating a simple salad and a fruit dessert.

You may serve the peaches with cream and add graham crackers or simple cookies or wafers, if you wish. And some may prefer coffee as a finisher for such a meal. Add potatoes to the meat dish during the last three-quarters of an hour and let them cook until tender.

Today's Recipes.

Baked Pot Roast with Vegetables—Four pounds beef (tough cut may be used), one-third cup flour, fat from meat or other fat (about one-fourth cup), two cups sliced onions, two cups celery, cut in pieces, one cup tomatoes, three springs parsley, one tablespoon salt, pepper to taste, three tablespoons flour, three tablespoons cold water. Wash the meat. Sprinkle the one-third cup flour over it. In a frying pan, placed on the surface burner, brown the floured meat in the fat. Place a rack in a pan or kettle. On top of the rack place the meat. Put the carrots, onions, celery, tomatoes and parsley around the meat. Add the salt and pepper. Cover the pan or kettle. Bake in a slow oven at 250 degrees for five hours. Remove the meat and vegetables to a hot platter. Mix the three tablespoons of flour and cold water. Stir the mixture into the hot meat broth. Continue stirring and cook on the surface burner for at least five minutes. Serve hot with the meat and vegetables.

Many more than short hair will grow on men. They used to wear theirs long, you know.

Hint No. 9—Don't get excited about the heat. Keep cool with calmness.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Senator William E. Borah is the G. O. P.'s oratorical Big Bertha par excellence of this campaign.

Better stuff cotton in your ears. He is going into action soon.

Ever since his first public appearance Bill has been recognized as a uniquely massive specimen of ordinance, in the speech-hurling line.

He hurls rather infrequently, to be sure. Sometimes he lets a whole season or two of congress go without one shot. Probably, like any other of these almost incredibly highpower pieces of artillery, he cannot stand his own concussion, too oft repeated.

But all politics quakes when Borah does detonate.

He lays down a barrage, all by himself, in comparison with the mere sniping tactics of an entire army corps of ordinary spellbinders.

His job now is to flatten out the enemy's defenses—to burst his barbed wire, obliterate his trenches, cave in his dug-outs, and give him shell-shock and everything—after which the smaller fry are expected to come over the top and see what they can do with the bayonet.

The zero hour has not been announced yet, but doubtless it will follow pretty speedily after Alfred E. Smith's acceptance drum-fire.

No joking, Senator Borah is regarded by all the best judges as the most formidable speaker in political public life today—in fact, the equal of anybody in any day.

The truth is, it is conceded that generally speaking, we have no orators any more. Borah is the exception.

He has kept the old art alive, with modern improvements. He has the knack of being grand and impressive, and making his audience's blood curdle, over the radio.

The rest cannot do it.

In order to put themselves across via the air, they have to sacrifice the climates. The minute they get the least bit bifurcated, they fall down wirelessly. Borah's trick is all his own. Nobody seems able to learn it. You can fairly see him, in your mind's eye, toss his mane, as the loud speaker delivers his rumble.

The senator will tour both east and west, according to the G. O. P. management.

Some say he is more urgently needed in the former region than in the latter. Editor William Allen White is mentioned as having done the party's cause no particular good there. The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton has reneged. Howls emanate from Massachusetts concerning the manner in which Senator George H. Moses is running things.

Bill can be depended on to put his heart into the fight.

The Hoover ticket, in a sense, is pre-eminently his ticket. Antinullification of the eighteenth amendment is his pet issue. He put it into the Republican platform at Kansas City. Hoover stands pat on it.

And they do say that Borah wants to be secretary of state in Hoover's cabinet.

So it is up to Senator Borah to orate for all there is in him between now and early next November. And that is a plenty.

Afraid You Are "Yellow?"

Conduct Under Stress Tells

I read recently part of the diary of a young man written while he was lost in the Arctic. He and his companion suffered great hardships before they were rescued, but he really came to know and trust himself under these circumstances because he found, as he said, that he did not show a "yellow streak" under intense physical and mental distress. It is a wonderful feeling, that one cannot be beaten by circumstance. That our heads may be "bloody but unbowed."

One can never have an "inferiority complex" after one has bravely faced life's raging storms and not cringed and whined.

Russia: Couldn't you or a member of your family go to the man's wife and tell her he is spending his time at your mother's, and that you wish she would take steps to keep him away? It is too bad you are not treated well at home, but my advice to you is to stick it out until you are a couple of years older and graduate from high school, if possible. Then you will be of age, can leave home, get a job, have your own friends, and will be free from the taunts of your family. You don't have to marry a young man just because he wants you. Don't marry until you meet some one you can love.

Sick of living writes to warn "Ramona" not to give in to the boy who was too poor to marry her but wanted a husband's privilege. She also wants my advice. I would just forget about the mistake you made, dear—at least as much as you can—and live a good, sweet, wholesome life, and enjoy the nice friends you say you have.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

Captain Cormorant, Private Detective

"Captain Cormorant stared at us with his great eyes. Dawn had come and we could see what a curved neck the bird had, how short was his tail and how green his eyes. And just then the first sunbeam struck across the water and glanced down upon his coat. What lovely colors, his feathers! All green and blue and gold!"

"Ah! I see you are admiring me," croaked Cormorant. "I knew you would—every one does sooner or later." He preened his feathers and twisted his neck and glanced admiringly at his reflection in the water.

"What is that you are sitting on, Captain Cormorant?" asked wife so suddenly that the fellow actually jumped.

"On a buoy, of course. What did you think it was?"

"I am sure I didn't think. If I had I should not have asked you," snapped wife, a little out of temper. "Are we in the channel?"

"To be sure you are. Didn't you hear the bell ringing? And didn't you almost bump into the light on top of the bell buoy?"

"What more proof do you want? Wife and I turned to look at the light that now was only faintly flickering. It was on top of two sticks that seemed to be attached to a funny thing that looked like a barrel. As we watched the light went out entirely. Ding! dong! Boomed over the waters.

"The waves make the bell toll," explained Captain Cormorant. "But I have never learned what makes the light go out, and it always does when the sun comes up. It is one of the mysteries of the sea that none of the birds have ever solved.

"All I know is the gleam tells the two-leg sailors at night the safe way into the harbor. But it draws the poor birds to their destruction. I am glad you fooled it. I think it is a cheat. It pretends to be so friendly and warns every one of danger and then it leads the feathered folk right into trouble.

"I am sitting on a spar buoy that marks the channel when the sun is up. Of course the humans couldn't see it in the dark. But it makes a splendid fishing post for a Cormorant."

Reserves Enjoy Batting Spree; Win Game 23 To 6

LEEPER SUBJECTED TO SEVERE ASSAULT IN RUBBER CONTEST

Homers Help Locals Beat Grismer Fuels Here Sunday

In the wildest orgy of hitting ever seen at Washington Park, the Reserves went on a rampage and overpowered the Grismer Fuels of Dayton by main force, 23 to 6 Sunday afternoon.

That the Reserves broke out with an epidemic of base hits is attested by the fact that the local nine gathered twenty-three hits, including two home runs, six doubles and a triple for a total of thirty-seven bases.

Ollie Klee and Sam Tangeman both exploded circuit smashes during the festivities, in both instances with the bases empty.

"Lefty" Leeper, usually a Reserve jinx, the starting mound assignment for Dayton, vanished in the fifth inning after the Reserves had lambasted his offerings for twelve hits and fourteen runs. Stringfellow, the relief pitcher, was not much of a relief, but finished the game despite continued assaults by the home nine.

In the fifth round, which witnessed Leeper's retirement, the Reserves made nine hits and scored eleven runs. Fifteen batters stepped to the plate in this hectic inning.

The Reserves hit safely in every inning and scored one or more runs in every stanza but the eighth. McMichael's, Reserves hurler, has merely a workout because of the batting support accorded him. He allowed eleven hits, three of which were bunched for two runs in the third and four additional tallies in the sixth.

Every Reserve player got at least one blow into safe territory and everybody but Johnson personally scored at least one run.

Cyphers, Reserve third baseman, was the batting star of the contest. Shaking off a hitting slump, Cyphers pounded out four hits, including a double, and walked once in six times at bat. Conley, Tangeman, Weller and McMichael each got three hits while Klee and Fisher made two apiece. Leeper and E. Krumm were the only visitors to make two hits off McMichael.

The contest was played on a winner-take-all basis, the Reserves getting the entire game receipts. The victory gave the local nine the season's series with the Grismer Fuels, two games to one. It also marked the eighteenth Reserve victory against two defeats.

Reserves will open a three-game series with the Springfield Eddies. Tailors, foremost colored team of that city, Sunday. Many of the colored stars, who formerly played with the Dayton Marcos last season, have joined the Springfield team this year.

During the series with the Eddies Tailors the admission will be 50 cents instead of 35 cents to the games. The Reserve management announces, this boost in price is made necessary by the fact many members of the Springfield team are all high-salaried players and the Reserve players will also be given more money.

LITTLE WORLD SERIES STARTS THURSDAY NIGHT AT COX FIELD

The first game of Xenia's "world series," a three-game series between the Xenia Cigars, champions of the National League, and the Carroll-Binder Co., champions of the American League to decide the 1928 city softball championship, will be played Thursday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, it is announced.

The contest will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. It is pointed out that the game must begin on time in order that the full nine innings may be played before darkness interferes.

The second game will be played Friday night and if a third game proves necessary to decide the title it will be played next Tuesday night.

The contesting teams shape up as evenly matched. Both teams lost only two games in their respective leagues during the season. Carroll-Binder won its last eight straight games.

Paul Boxwell will probably pitch for Xenia Thursday night with Neville working for Carroll-Binder Co.

It is understood that E. Boxwell and T. Rachford will be the umpires.

"Hurry Up" Yost Hurrying Back

FIELDING H. YOST
BACK AGAIN AS MICHIGAN'S FOOTBALL COACH

By JACK SORDS
Sports Cartoonist-Writer for Central Press and The Gazette
The first real football news of the year is the report from the University of Michigan that Fielding H. Yost will again assume the direction of the Wolverine eleven after a year's absence.

Yost had been a dominant factor in the development of great Michigan teams over a period of twenty-six years, but stepped aside last fall to become the director of athletics at the university.

Elton Wieman, who at one time played under Yost, became head coach. This year the situation at Michigan is not what it might be. Many of last year's stars are lost through graduation, and the outlook is none too bright. This makes a perfect setting for the return of Yost. Not that Wieman was a failure, but Yost is a known quantity and has faced such a situation before, making a powerful team from almost entirely raw material. It is almost a certainty that he will do the same this fall. There may not be many players on the squad who look like all-American prospects when the season opens, but there will be before it closes.

Yost's career as a coach has been a long and colorful one. He played his first game at West Virginia in 1894. It also happened to be the first game he ever witnessed. He later entered Lafayette and was a member of the first Lafayette team to defeat Pennsylvania. During those years he developed a great liking for the game and on completing his studies started out on what was destined to become a great coaching career. After coaching at Ohio Wesleyan and Nebraska he came to Michigan in 1901, and from the very start produced powerful eleveners.

Charles W. Bryan, candidate for governor of Nebraska, who declares he will support the Democratic ticket from the president down. His decision is considered significant in light of bitter opposition of his famous brother, the late William Jennings Bryan, to Governor Smith.

The Phi Delta Kappa fraternity softball team laid claim to a double victory after defeating St. Brigid High School in the final game of the National League season last Friday night.

The Phi Dels declared they were under the impression an agreement had been reached whereby the winning team Friday would receive credit for two victories since a late start and resulting darkness precluded the possibility of staging a double-header to decide a postponed game.

When St. Brigid filed a protest, the matter was adjusted with the result that the Phi Dels therefore finished in last place with a record of one victory and thirteen defeats. St. Brigid is placed five percent, one point ahead with a record of one victory and twelve defeats, giving the parochial school fifth place in the standing.

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Auditor of the City of Xenia, Ohio, until twelve o'clock noon on the 19th day of September, 1928, for the purchase of bonds of said City in the aggregate sum of Eleven Thousand dollars, ($11,000.00), dated September 1, 1928. Said bonds will be eleven in number and numbered from one (1) to eleven (11) both inclusive. Each of said bonds will be in the denomination of One Thousand Dollars, ($1,000.00), and will draw interest at the rate of five and one-half (5 1/2) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of September and March of each year. Said bonds will be due and payable as follows: One bond on September 1st in each of the years from 1929 to 1938, both inclusive, except two of said bonds will mature in 1936 and two in 1938.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of creating a fund for the purchase of a motor fire apparatus for the protection of the corporation and the inhabitants of the City of Xenia, Ohio, and under authority of the laws of Ohio particularly the Uniform Bond Act of the General Code, and in accordance with a certain ordinance of the City of Xenia, Ohio, entitled, "An ordinance providing for the issuance of bonds of the City of Xenia for the purpose of purchasing a motor fire apparatus for the protection of the corporation and the inhabitants thereof."

Bidders may present a bid for such bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest than herein fixed, conditioned that where a fractional interest rate is bid such fraction shall be one-quarter of one (1/4) per cent or multiple thereof.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest and best bidder at not less than par and accrued interest. All bids must state the number of bonds bid for and the gross amount of the bid and accrued interest to date of delivery. All bids to be accompanied by a certified check on a solvent bank, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Xenia, Ohio, for two per cent of the amount of bonds bid for, upon condition that if the bid is accepted the bidder will receive and pay for such bonds as may be issued as above set forth within ten (10) days from the time of award. Said check to be retained if not fulfilled. The right is reserved by the City of Xenia to reject any and all bids.

Bids should be sealed and endorsed, "Bids for Eleven Thousand Dollars, ($11,000.00), Fire Apparatus Bonds," August 24th, 1928.

COAST GUARD INQUIRY LOOMS

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Seymour Lowman, left, and Representative W. W. Chalmers, of Toledo.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Promiscuous firing at pleasure craft by coast guardsmen makes a congressional investigation appear imminent.

Complaints of federal crews firing on innocent yachts and other pleasure boats in their efforts to curb rum running have been pouring into Washington since last spring, when the Great Lakes coast guard force was augmented by a dozen new cutters.

When coast guardsmen fired on a Buffalo, N. Y. yacht, a few weeks ago which carried among its men and women passengers, Frank Raiche, Buffalo attorney and law partner of Colonel William J. Donovan, assistant United States attorney general, officials at Washington began to take notice.

The latest incident occurred re-

DANCE MARATHONS IN CLEVELAND ARE TABOO SAYS CHIEF

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—

Dance marathons are taboo in Cleveland, according to Safety Director Edwin E. Barry who stated his opinion concerning the endurance contests in no uncertain terms.

"What a marathon dance in Cleveland! I should say not," Barry declared with indignation when asked about a proposed contest that was to be held at the Public Hall. "Dance marathons are the loudest rackets of all the rackets in existence. There will never be one in Cleveland as long as I am Safety Director," Barry continued.

"Maybe it wouldn't be so bad if they would dance them straight to death," the safety director philosophically remarked. "But they don't," he declared. "They allow them to rest and revive them with massage and medical treatment. It is slow torture. I won't stand for people being killed by inches in Cleveland."

Barry's view of the marathon dancing was revealed when application was made by Jack Fisher of New York, for a permit allowing them to stage a marathon dance in the public hall. Fisher and his associates offered $16,000 for the use of the hall, it was reported.

The safety director said that he had not only refused the above offer but many other innumerable requests for permits to hold marathons in Cleveland dance halls.

"I think now is the time to talk. Please don't leave me in suspense like this. I feel badly enough."

He sat down on the edge of the divan and twirled his hat in his hands, slowly. How could he tell her the things he wanted to say?

"Well, Janet," he said finally, with an effort. "We can't go on like this, under the circumstances. Not with all the notoriety you are bringing on yourself. I can't afford to become involved in a mess like that—and you are going to break your neck. You can't keep up like this without coming to a sad realization some of these days that you have made a bitter mistake."

She wanted to cry out to him, frantically, but she sat in the chair and asked, slowly:

"You mean the show—you think that is a mistake. That I should not have capitalized on my father's actions—all that?"

Allen Bone, 25, son of J. A. Bone, Wilmington Pike, suffered a scalp wound on the forehead and bruised the cheek bone when his small coupe was struck by an automobile driven by George Hagler, New Burlington and Spring Valley Pike on St. Detroit St., near the Baltimore and Ohio railroad crossing about 5 p. m. Sunday.

Bone's wounds were dressed at Esplanade Hospital. Bone, who was driving south on Detroit St., accompanied by his cousin, Harold McMillen, turned into Home Ave. in front of the Hagler car, which was traveling south on Detroit St. Hagler said that he was unable to avoid striking the smaller car, which was crowded against a telephone pole. The windshield was shattered and the driver's head struck the pole. McMillen was unhurt.

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Mary James, eighteen, has an ambition to go on the stage, because her mother, who she calls "Mother," is a famous opera star. In New York Janet meets Ballard Riley, a successful young physician, who is known as a woman hater. At first it was great fun for Janet to have dates with Ballard and tease him about his ideas. Later, Janet knows she loves Ballard, but he keeps her guessing. Mort Goldstein, producer of famous musical shows, sees that Janet has talent and plans to star her in a new musical show. Janet's father, a former mountain parson, reaches Broadway, too, and is holding a sensational revival up town. The newspapers learn of this, and give Janet a lot of publicity.

Goldstein hopes to sign up the parson for a big revival in Madison Square Garden while Janet is starring in the "Blue Laws of 1928." Goldstein's latest revue. In the show is Maxine Griffith, whom Janet helped in the rehearsal days, when the little chorus girl went broke. They became great friends. Janet's arch enemy is Floidine Deslys, who is jealous of Janet's success, and snubs her on every occasion. Janet meets Della De Lacy, a show girl, at a night club. Della invites Janet to come and see her little boy Dennis Riley. Goldstein's new show opens with Janet as the star.

Janet persuades Ballard to attend the opening night of the new show.

Floidine, in a rage, determines to get even with Janet. She is seen entering Janet's dressing room, during the show, by Lotus Flower, little Chinese maid. After the show, Ballard goes around to the stage door to meet Janet. Just as he reaches the door he hears angry voices.

Janet accuses Janet of taking her diamonds. "No, it's a pretty cheap trick, and while no one believes Floidine Janet is afraid of the publicity on account of Ballard."

Now go on with the story

CHAPTER XXXV

Ballard's emotions were mingled as he sat in the studio with one weeping Janet.

In a way, he felt sorry for her. In another, he hoped so many unpleasant things would happen to her that she would get a little sense pounded into her head.

But his mind was made up to one thing. He could no longer jeopardize his position and his career by being seen with her so often. She would probably get into some sort of a big scandal one of these days—and where would he be? Right on the front page with her!

She clung around his neck until she was thoroughly cried out—and he petted her absently. His heart was not in comforting her. Janet dried her eyes and powdered her nose. Her voice was small and babyish as she sat on the arm of his chair trying to smile.

"Love me, Ballard. I'm so unhappy."

He pulled her to his lap automatically. She saw the expression on his face. His eyes showed sympathy, and he looked pored and indifferent. Janet froze with a sudden fear. Something was wrong—or he would not look like that.

She reached up and pulled his head down to her lips, but there was no response in his kiss.

"Oh, Ballard," she drew back and begged him suddenly. "What is the matter? Are you angry about something?"

He pushed her from his lap and got up. Crossing the room, he picked up his hat and started toward the door. She was unable to move from surprise.

"Janet," he said, slowly. "I can't talk about it now, but I do want to have a serious talk with you very soon. We must come to an understanding."

Her throat was dry, and she felt dizzy. The time had come. He was through. She tried to sound natural.

"I think now is the time to talk. Please don't leave me in suspense like this. I feel badly enough."

He sat down on the edge of the divan and twirled his hat in his hands, slowly. How could he tell her the things he wanted to say?

"Well, Janet," he said finally, with an effort. "We can't go on like this, under the circumstances. Not with all the notoriety you are bringing on yourself. I can't afford to become involved in a mess like that—and you are going to break your neck. You can't keep up like this without coming to a sad realization some of these days that you have made a bitter mistake."

She wanted to cry out to him, frantically, but she sat in the chair and asked, slowly:

"You mean the show—you think that is a mistake. That I should not have capitalized on my father's actions—all that?"

"Yes. And this ring business. That is a jealous frame-up, and it is certain to get in the papers." Her lip curled. She was angry. Suddenly.

"Oh, I suppose I can help that, can't I? So you are afraid of being accused of being with a thief." He got up suddenly, and crossed to her.

"Stop that! You know I would stand by you if you needed a friend. No matter what trouble you were in. But you don't need a friend. You need to be taken and caged until you get some sense."

She was on her feet in an instant.

"How dare you talk like that to me! Do you think I am a child? He smiled bitterly.

"No. Unfortunately, you are not. But you should be, at your age." She was white with rage. At a loss for words. She stared at him for a moment, then smiled, sardonically.

"Oh, yes, I am just a little child. And I should be, at my age. I am such a child that I didn't know any better than to try to vamp you."

The words came out, ugly, and with a snarl.

Ballard was stunned. He took her by the arms and shook her. "Janet, don't you dare talk that way! Do you know what you are saying?"

She laughed, wildly. "Do I? Certainly!"

He sat down suddenly and covered his face with his hands.

"Janet, Janet, don't, please, go any further with this. Don't say things you'll be sorry and ashamed of afterwards."

She was hysterical. It didn't make any difference now what she said. She kept on, bitterly:

"What about all the fine advice you gave me? Didn't you tell me it was all right for a girl to love? Well, I believed all that rot, and I was so crazy about you I thought I could win you that way."

She stood before him, laughing—mad with her grief.

Ballard stared at her for a moment, stunned with her outburst.

"My God, Janet, what are you saying?"

She answered defiantly: "I am telling you that I loved you, and that I thought you would love me."

She sat down and laughed, hysterically. She felt that she was going mad. If this was the end, she would tell him all about it. It didn't make any difference now.

Ballard forced her to sit on the divan beside him. His face was white and strained. He begged her:

"If I break down and tell men I love them, for instance."

He shook his head.

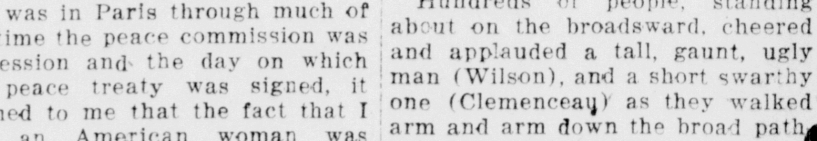

"You know I don't mean that. I mean if you don't get away from Goldstein and Broadway. If you keep up with this rotten crowd and forget that you have brains and intelligence."

They were silent a moment. He didn't know what to say to her. Janet, with her head on his shoulder, and his arms around her, felt that she must die with the pain that suddenly swept through her. This was the end—the end of everything.

THEIR GREAT MOMENT

Even The Sun Broke Through The Clouds As Treaty Was Signed.

Left, Georges Clemenceau; right, Woodrow Wilson, and, below, David Lloyd George

By IDA H. MCGLOTH GIBSON
Especially Written for Central Press and The Gazette

In talking with Mrs. Eleanor McAdoo, daughter of the late Woodrow Wilson, last year, she said: "I don't want Mr. McAdoo to become president of the United States. My saddest memories are connected with the White House, and all history shows that anyone exalted to the great position of president has had to leave the happiness that may be the lot of the average man behind."

It has always seemed to me that Woodrow Wilson had more than his share of unhappiness while in the White House. He lived to see his great ideal of universal peace condemned and himself branded as a selfish politician; and yet there must have been times when he had moments of great exaltation almost too great to bear.

I was in Paris through much of the time the peace commission was in session and the day on which the peace treaty was signed, it seemed to me that the fact that I was an American woman was something of which to be very proud. An American Red Cross A. E. F. uniform was paid a reverence on that day.

We had fought for that peace. We had helped to make it and now we were the first to sign it.

The President Signs

President Wilson was very pale as he left his seat and went around the table to where the book lay open. Then followed Lloyd George and then Clemenceau, who seemed to have grown two inches in height.

After Clemenceau came the others of the Allied countries.

Then there was a moment of silence, so deep you could hear it. Clemenceau got up, went to the two German commissioners and said, "You will sign now." The two Germans walked solemnly to the book and signed.

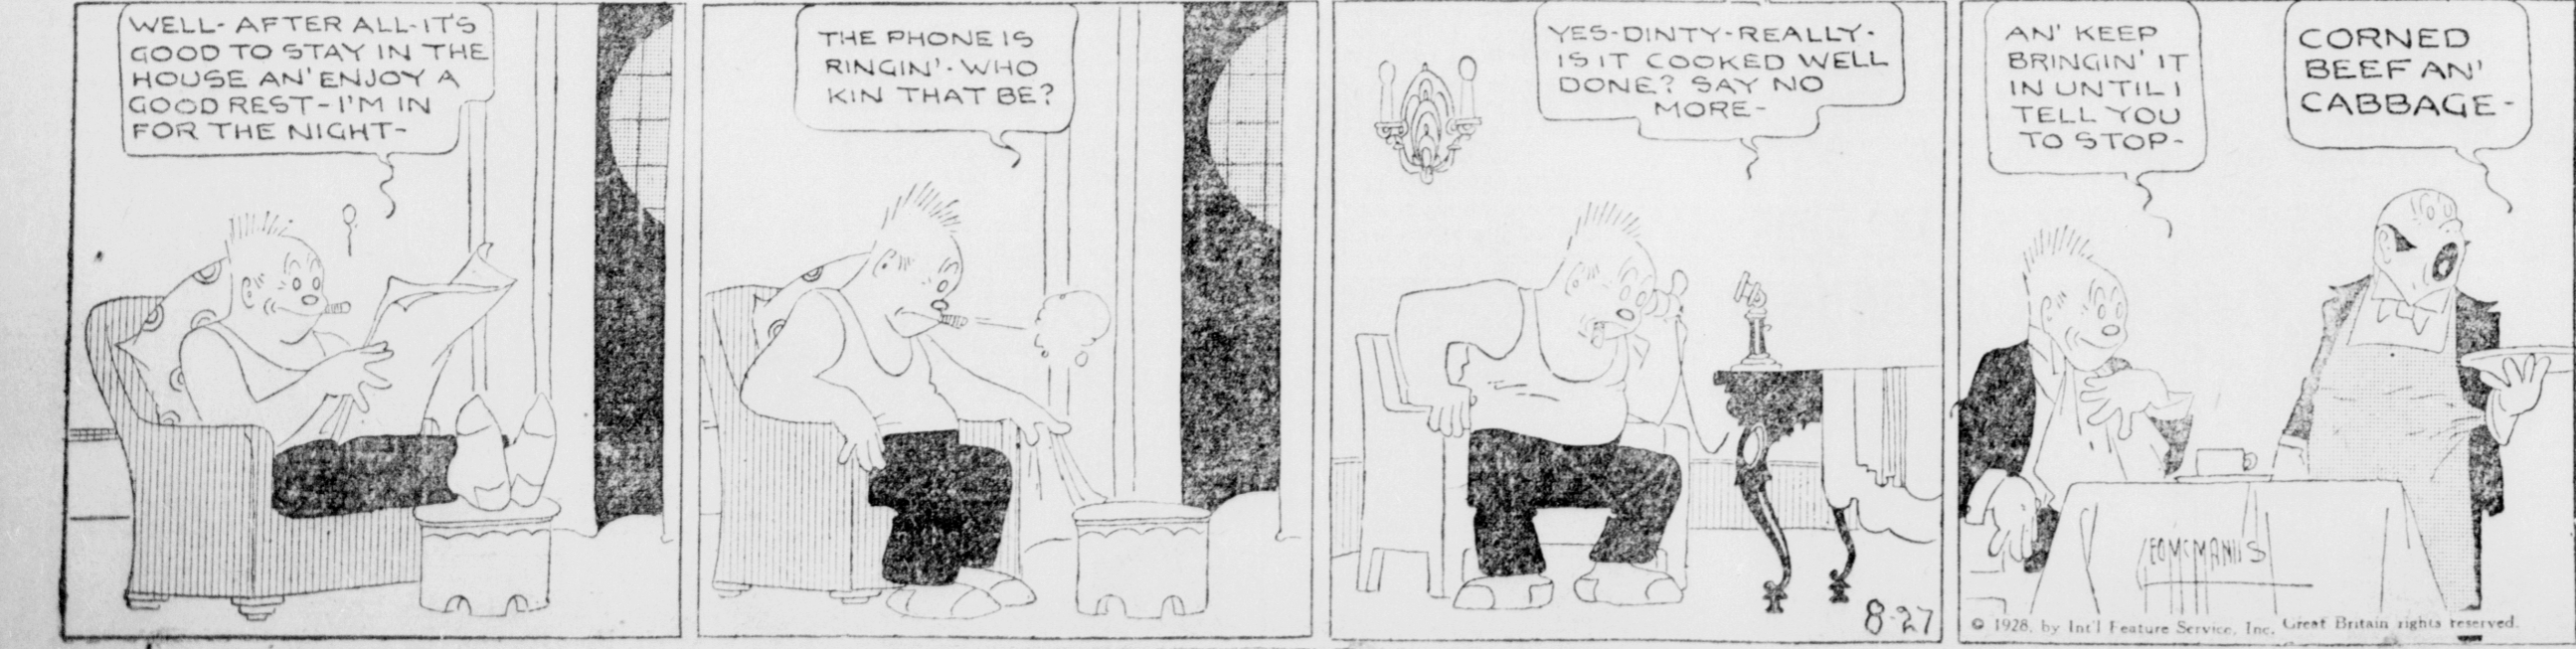

At that moment the sun broke through the clouds which had given the day a purplish gray cast and the whole world seemed bathed in liquid gold. The famous fountains which had been silent and dead through the war began to play and we in the "Hall of Mirrors" looked out on a scene which probably had never been seen through these historic windows.

Hundreds of people, standing about on the broadway, cheered and applauded a tall, gaunt, ugly man (Wilson), and a short swarthy one (Clemenceau) as they walked arm and arm down the broad path way past the fountains.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The great movies of any one year can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Some years are barren of that many. But in recounting those of 1928 save one digit for Emil Jannings' latest—"The Patriot," a truly great picture.

One can usually depend on Jannings for an evening of fine entertainment, and in this picture he outshines himself. His performance as Emperor Paul, the mad tsar of all the Russians, is even better than his depiction of the old hotel porter in his memorable "Last Laugh."

Jannings plays the royal idiot to a ghastly perfection, grimacing at his counsellors over matters of state; in an instant he is simpering at the feet of a petulant favorite, again he is the mad monarch shouting an insane order from the palace windows to his cavalry to ride down crowds gathered to pay homage to his son; and once again, now covering in his beautiful bed in dread fear of assassination. Fearing, always fearing, until the end, when he rises to dominate his counsellors and soldiers.

HOME-COMERS ENJOY "SCHOOL AND LODGE DAY" HERE MONDAY

Monday, the second day of the Greene County Home-Coming, is observed as "School and Lodge Day." No formal program was arranged for the morning hours, which were devoted to a reception for visitors, personifying Xenia hospitality. An especial effort was put forth by Xenians to make returning former residents feel more at home.

The opening program of the day was held at 1:30 o'clock in Shawnee Park auditorium when Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, was scheduled to make the principal address.

Russell Greiner, Kansas City, Mo., former Xenian, who is credited with being responsible for plans which led to the Home-Coming, presided as chairman. A musical feature was also arranged.

Athletic events were scheduled for 3 p. m. at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, including a softball game, wall scaling by Boy Scouts, tennis matches and a tilting match. This is to be followed by an orchestra contest in the auditorium with prizes awarded the winners.

The first parade of the four-day celebration is scheduled for 6:45 p. m. Monday. The procession will move over downtown streets and disband at the auditorium, where a flag presentation ceremony to Greene County Scouts will be in charge of the Daughters of America.

KONJOLA TRIUMPHS WHEN EVERYTHING ELSE HAD FAILED

Another Xenia Lady Gives High Praise To This New Medicine

For months and months, this celebrated new Konjola medicine has accomplished amazing results throughout the entire city of Xenia, and in the surrounding communities, until now, thousands of sufferers afflicted with the most severe cases of health troubles are turning to this surprising remedy for relief. A case of renewed health through the use of Konjola was recently described in a report received from Eliza Moore, Dowdell Avenue, Xenia, while talking to the Konjola Man who is at Gallagher's Drug Store, this city.

"Konjola is the only medicine I could find that would relieve stomach and kidney troubles the way it did," said Mrs. Moore, "and I want to endorse this medicine and recommend that all my friends take it for it surely helped me."

"My entire system was in an awfully rundown condition. All the ailments I had made me so nervous I could not stand the least bit of excitement around me. My stomach was in an awfully disordered condition and in spite of everything that I would for it, the pills still kept on bothering me. I put every meal gas used to form a lump pit of my stomach causing me a lot of pain and at times double the usual amount of gas."

"At my chest and throat, would feel tight and worried. At these times my heart would flutter and palpitate so much that I thought it would stop beating. I was also subject to vomiting spells and when one of these attacks came on, I would have frightful headaches thereafter. These many ailments were sapping my weight and were awfully bad and caused me to be dizzy and nervous all the time. At night I could not rest properly but had to rise five or six times due to bladder weakness. The next morning when I got up I would feel tired and worried."

"This was my exact condition before I found Konjola. One day a friend of mine suggested that I try Konjola. She had taken it and this medicine had done her so much good, that I decided to try it. But I never had much faith in it and just to please her started on the treatment. I had only been taking it for three days when I could notice a vast improvement over my whole body. It seemed to go right to the source of all my troubles and it cleansed my body of all poisonous matter that had long been a part of my chest and throat, taking this compound and soon had taken a full treatment. Now, my stomach no longer bothers me. I can eat all the solid foods I like and not suffer the awful after effects. The gas never forms any more and my heart is back to normal. It surely is wonderful the way Konjola builds you up. My kidneys are well again and when I go to bed I sleep all through the night and never have to be always getting up. I feel fine now and can not help but praise Konjola."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallagher Drug Store, Xenia, where he

Mrs. Minnie Pillsbury will present the flag to Greene County Boy Scouts on behalf of the O. of A. Ralph Baldwin, a Boy Scout, will make the acceptance talk.

Following the selection, the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Dayton D. of A. Band, the closing prayer will be given by the Rev. James P. Lytle. After the program, a drill by the I. O. O. F. of Dayton will be held on the tennis courts at the park.

The parade will form at Main and Collier Sts. It will move west on Main St., to West St., then south on West St., to Second St., east on Second to Detroit St., north on Detroit St., to Church St., then along the Detroit St. boulevard to Shawnee Park where it will disband.

L. S. Barnes will act as grand marshal with Matt Coulter, Allen Haines, R. H. Kingsbury, Louis Hammerle and Arthur Taylor as his assistants.

Following the D. of A. program, dancing will be enjoyed in the auditorium.

Several changes are announced in the D. of A. program scheduled for Monday night. Under the revised program, the exercises will open at the auditorium immediately after the parade with the address by Mrs. Carrie D. Faulkner.

QUIVER QUEEN'S HUBBY TOO BOASTFUL; GIL AND GILDA SPLIT

Gilda Gray

By IONE QUINBY
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

CHICAGO, Aug. 27—War back when Gilda Gray married Gil Boag in Chicago, the latter took me to one side and whispered what a wonderful little girl Gilda, sheba of shimmy shakers, was; how she had reached the top battling for success through thick and thin; how she had never forgotten a friend, and how charming she was in every way.

Then he and Gilda took the guests, including Judge Marcus Kavanaugh, who read the marriage service; Lenore Ulrich, the actress, who attended the same childhood parochial school in Milwaukee with Gilda; six members of Ziegfeld's pony ballet; Alexander Gray, the musical comedy star; Gilda's father and mother and the rest of us over to the fashionable hotel next door, where he continued his compliments to Gilda in a lengthy toast.

And I'm wondering whether there won't be a lot of comparing of adjectives amongst those who sat at that wedding breakfast, if Gil replies to Gilda's suit for divorce, as he has threatened to do in a recent interview abroad.

As his wife's press agent he has said more flattering things about his better half than any other man alive.

The other day at luncheon the subject of Gilda's suit for divorce came up, and someone asked me whether it was true that they had a shimmy dancer lithographed on the marriage certificate, and if I thought there would be one on the divorce decree. I told them Gilda's checks have shimmy dancers on them, but for the life of me I couldn't remember a thing about the certificate.

The truth is that I was so engrossed at the time counting the diamonds in Gilda's shoe buckles and eight bracelets, and listening to Gil Boag's toasts, that I didn't even think of certificates. However, I wouldn't be surprised if the figure of the little dancer appeared on the contract, because it has appeared in a thousand different places since, and Gil was always a good press agent—until the two fell out, as many married couples do.

One can be a bit too good a press agent, however. The story of the Gray-Boag wedding laid such stress on Gilda's diamonds that when it was ballyhooed about town a short time afterward two men stole them from her in the lobby of her apartment building. When they had taken the diamond buckles, necklace, eight bracelets, and a ring or two, they said: "Thanks for the broadcasting. You've got a good press agent, girlie!"

Coleman Ritenour, 40, prominent young Greene County farmer, died at his home south of Jamestown, at 3:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Death followed five months' illness from sarcoma. An operation performed at Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, three months ago, failed to bring relief.

Mr. Ritenour has resided in the Jamestown vicinity fifteen years. He was a member of the Jamestown Methodist Church and was active in the congregation.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Olive Bullock Ritenour; one son, Dale; his mother, Mrs. Anna Ritenour, Jamestown and two brothers, Charles of Jeffersonville and Frank Ritenour, of Toledo.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 at his residence, in charge of the Rev. L. D. Vesey, pastor of the Jamestown Methodist Church. Burial will be made in Jamestown Cemetery.

FATTED CALVES SLAUGHTERED TO FEED XENIA'S PRODIGAL SONS

Sixteen hundred pounds of meat are available for the combined ox-roast and carnival being planned as a feature of the Home-Coming Tuesday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, according to an announcement by I. M. Hyman, in charge of the event.

Captain George Flegley, Columbus, and a crew of eight men, arrived in Xenia Monday morning to make advance preparations for the feast Captain Flegley is a professional in his line, having staged similar barbecues in all parts of the country.

He brought his own equipment and expects to start cooking the meat at 4:30 a. m. Tuesday in order to insure it being ready for the evening.

Ten fatted calves have been led to the slaughter in preparation for the return of Greene County's prodigal sons.

Six professional vaudeville acts obtained from the Gus Sun Amusement Co., Springfield, will feature the carnival.

Everybody planning to assist at the ox-roast and carnival is asked to be at the athletic field Monday night at 6:30 o'clock to be assigned their places.

Following are the free vaudeville acts to feature the carnival:

Madame Barnard's Circus of three acts, featuring ponies, dogs,

Morales Bros. and Dasey, an acrobatic and aerial feature.
Miss Hetty Cole, singing aerialist.
The Great Donola, two acts of slack wire exhibitions and comedy juggling.

a retail store ideal that made good

Every great business is the outcome of an ideal—often the ideal of some daring soul who abandons the beaten path for an untried way. James C. Penney conceived just such an ideal 26 years ago, when he undertook to operate a retail business in strict conformity with the principle of the Golden Rule—

To sell only soundly made merchandise—
To avoid "Sales" and set, instead, on each piece of goods a fair price that would remain the same from day to day—
To run a strictly cash-and-carry business, with the same uniformly courteous treatment to all.

Today, at your local J. C. Penney Company Store, you will find the self-same Golden Rule principles of the Company's founder being carried out fully. In addition, you will enjoy the advantages that our nation-wide organization makes possible—

The expert services of a staff of buyers—each a specialist in his or her line. These buyers are ever on the alert to secure the best possible values for you.

The economic distribution of goods brought about by supplying the needs of 1024 stores. This results in substantially reducing prices to you without any loss in the quality of the goods.

CAR ON SPRING

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 27—Wearied from many trips to and fro, a street car here, decided to go on a vacation. At a moment when the operator was giving it a loose rein it left the rails and careened madly along for a few yards before righting itself and veering into the curbing where a Ford had taken respite from its journey. No one was injured. The Ford was wrecked beyond repair.

HOME-COMING OPENS HERE SUNDAY

REPLICA OF CHURCH SERVICE FEATURES HOME-COMING START

Pioneer Rites Are Followed; Many Attend Program

Descendants of Tecumseh, famed Shawnee Indian chief, and James Galloway, hardy Greene County pioneer, occupied the same platform in the auditorium of Shawnee Park Sunday afternoon, when 2,000 people attended the reproduction of a church service of 125 years ago.

Chief Thomas Wildcat Alford, Shawnee, Okla., great-grandson of Tecumseh, was the first and Dr. W. A. Galloway, Xenia historian and great-grandson of Rebecca Galloway, whose hand Tecumseh sought in marriage, was chairman of the afternoon's program.

Dr. Galloway, in the opening address, expressed his pleasure that the first service in the new Community Hall, constructed through the generosity of present and former Greene Countyans, was one of worship. He recalled the details of the church service of 125 years ago, held in the round log cabin of that period.

The first pioneer preachers in Greene County, Dr. Galloway explained, were the Rev. Robert Armstrong and the Rev. Hugh McMillan, who he declared "did more for the uplift of Greene County than any other individuals."

The chairman introduced Dr. H. B. McElree, who delivered the same sermon that the Rev. Mr. Armstrong delivered to his flock in 1818 and who opened the service by announcing Psalm 50. Edwin Galloway read the Scripture from a Bible 200 years old, and owned by James Boone, brother of Daniel Boone, Greene County pioneer. Mr. Galloway explained that this year was the sequel-centennial of Daniel Boone's capture by the Shawnee Indians and his escape at Old Chillicothe, now Old Town.

The Rev. Dr. R. Jamieson, pastor of the Sugar Creek Church, where the service duplicated Sunday was held, pronounced the prayer.

The collection, which was presented to Chief Alford to help defray the expense of publishing his translation of the Bible into the Shawnee language for his people in the West, was taken by the "pole and poke" method, small black bags being fastened to long poles to hold the money.

Deacons and elders of the Sugar Creek U. P. Church, descendants of the early Scotch Associates, took the collection. The congregation of the Sugar Creek Church, which has been in continuous existence since 1804, was the Scotch Associates built the first log church there, attended the service in a body, and acted as the pioneer congregation. Edwin Galloway, this city as "precentor" lined out the hymns by the old-fashioned method.

The Rev. Mr. McElree, pastor of Second U. P. Church, Xenia, read the outline of the sermon, preached by the Rev. Mr. Armstrong, pastor of the Massie Creek Association Church, April 18, 1818, which had been written in long hand by James Galloway and preserved by his descendants and is now in the possession of Dr. W. A. Galloway.

BELIEVE FOUR ARE DROWNING VICTIMS

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 27.—Search for three companions of William Schornbeck, 38, drowned in Lake Erie when he fell out of a power boat eight miles from here late yesterday, was being organized today following that non-appearance of the youths whose names are not learned.

According to reports brought in by a fisherman, Schornbeck and the three boys were fishing when Schornbeck lost his balance and lunged overboard, sinking almost instantly.

It was believed the youths then cruised about in an effort to recover the drowned man's body and that they would return here if darkness overtook them before they succeeded.

Anxiety gave way to fear and a searching party was organized today, however, as hours went by and no report was received of the ill-fated fishing party.

CALIFORNIA FIRES DESTROY FORESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—Hundreds of fire fighters were still battling blazes today which were eating into valuable timber lands in northern California. Many new blazes have been ignited by sparks and lightning and forestry officials are despatching every available man for the fire lines.

After an 18-hour battle 500 men, including many prominent Californians on vacation, a fire which threatened to destroy the Brockway Hotel, Lake Tahoe, was reported.

TORNADO KILLS TWO; IOWA SUFFERS LOSS

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Aug. 27.—Two persons were killed and at least fifteen injured when a tornado swept four southwestern Iowa counties. It was learned today.

Farm homes were wrecked, crops seriously damaged and livestock and poultry killed.

Wire communication with the stricken area still was down this morning.

At Elliott, bodies of James H. Jervis and his three-year-old son were removed from the debris of their farm home. Mrs. Jervis was reported in a critical condition.

The town of Oakland in Pottawattamie County, not far from here, was hard hit. A church and other buildings were reported in ruins.

The storm tore its way through Mills, Pottawattamie, Cass and northern of the wind-swept area—hail followed. Hailstones as large as twelve inches in circumference were reported.

REPORT FIVE DROWN IN FLOODS AFTER NEW YORK CLOUDBURST

Twenty Others Reported Missing; Heavy Property Damage Sustained; Streams Swollen By Heavy Rainfall.

ELLENVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Floods resulting from a cloudburst were today believed to have taken a toll of at least five lives.

Property damage is tremendous. Many bridges have been washed away and twenty persons were reported missing. Communication has been disrupted and it is feared the flood toll may be greater.

Charles Lavery, 50, of Paterson, N. J., was drowned when he attempted to escape from his automobile when it was engulfed by the swirling waters on a road near here, according to Chief of Police Ross.

Lavery was accompanied by an unnamed companion who reached higher ground in safety. His body was not recovered early today.

At Montella, N. Y., according to the Ellenville police, a man named Blatt was drowned after carrying his crippled wife to safety. The bungalow of the drowned man was in the direct path of the raging current.

Three persons were reported drowned near Accord when their automobile was overturned by the swollen waters of a creek near the road upon which they were traveling.

According to reports a bridge over the creek was washed out and the driver attempted to ford the small stream but miscalculated its depth and velocity. All three were trapped in the car.

Passenger And Freight Trains Crash On Hocking Valley

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 27.—Vaine Kramer, 30, Columbus, Hocking Valley Railroad fireman, was dead today and twelve persons injured, one seriously, as the result of a head-on collision between a passenger train and a northbound freight, three miles south of Walbridge near here, yesterday.

The injured: Engineer William Spaeth, Columbus, (seriously hurt); F. E. Kosmick, Detroit; Mrs. P. P. Coverdale, Toledo; Mrs. Russell A. Walker, Lancaster, O.; Mrs. Charles R. Griffith, Cleveland; R. C. Cohen, Detroit; Miss Helen Field, Columbus; Mrs. A. H. Field, Lansing, Mich.; Margaret Oakfield, Columbus; R. K. Sheldon, Columbus; A. Wheat, Detroit; John William, Detroit.

With the exception of Spaeth, none of the injured received more than a severe shaking up and slight bruises.

The passenger train left Toledo for Columbus at 4:30 a. m. at the time a dense fog obscured vision from the engine cabs, and this was blamed for the collision which occurred when the freight pulled out of a siding and crashed into the southbound passenger train.

Both locomotives were wrecked, but only one passenger car left the rails.

The freight was carrying airplane equipment for the Antarctic expedition of Commander Richard E. Byrd. The equipment was badly damaged.

THREE DROWN WHEN BOAT OVERTURNS

SANDUSKY, O., Aug. 27.—Three men were drowned when an outboard motorboat in which they were riding overturned in Lake Erie, between North Bass Island and Sugar Island, late last night, it was learned here today.

The victims were: Al Kessler, 34, and Carl Kessler, 23, brothers of Sandusky, and William O'Malley, 30, of Middlesex Island. Ted Sanderson, of North Bass Island, the fourth member of the party, was rescued, unconscious, but resuscitated and was recovering rapidly today. None of the bodies

Enraged because Probate Judge George W. Folmer performed a marriage ceremony for the 15-year-old daughter of E. A. Conn, of Olathe, Kas., Conn "beat up" the judge, according to charges on which the father was jailed. Folmer, whose bruised features are shown in inset, has only one arm. Mr. and Mrs. William Mashburn, the young couple whose marriage caused the rumpus, also are shown.

BUILDING WRECKED BY MYSTERY BLAST

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 27.—Thousands of persons bound for work down town today gathered in front of the R. Kirschbaum building to view the damage done by a mysterious explosion that wrecked the building and damaged adjoining structures. First estimates placed the loss at more than $100,000.

Shattered glass from show and office windows stood nearly a foot deep in the street in front of the buildings. Special police details held back the crowd at a distance.

Harold Wibowitz, 22, was found terribly burned in an alley behind the Kirschbaum building. His condition is critical.

Firemen Cecil O. Richardson and R. C. Wallace were cut, bruised and burned in fighting a fire that followed the blast.

CHICAGO HEIGHTS PAPER IS BOMBED

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Chicago Heights, a suburb on the southwestern fringe of Chicago, was in an uproar today over gangland's latest and boldest challenge to law and order.

It was the bombing of the village newspaper, the Chicago Heights Star, an organ that has been active in fighting crime in that district. Practically the entire front of the two-story plant was blown away. Dynamite apparently was the explosive used.

Kings Williams, part owner and editor of the paper, after viewing the ruins, made the positive statement that the bombing was the result of the paper's editorial policy. The paper opposed the village administration and has been conducting an expose of the gangster-bootlegger-criminal element, Williams said.

BLAME DEFECTIVE CAR FOR FATAL SUBWAY CRASH FRIDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—A defective car, improperly inspected before it left the Van Cortlandt yard, was responsible for the Times Square subway crash of last Friday in which sixteen persons lost their lives and 100 were injured.

Investigators for the transit commission made this reply this morning after completing a thorough inspection of the mechanical aspect of the fatal switch which hurled two cars into a shambles of death and destruction.

It is the theory of the experts that the tripping device on the car, the fatal eighth in the death train, was out of order and that it failed to register the lights as it passed over the signal switch. Since the device is between the front trucks of the car, the towman, watching the lights, assumed that the train had passed over the switch and threw it into the storage track, in

LEADER OF VICE PROBE IN AKRON IS GUN TARGET

Councilman's Life Is Menaced Second Time Sunday

AKRON, O., Aug. 27.—A roundup of underworld characters in an attempt to run down the gunmen who last night tried to assassinate Councilman Kyle Ross, leader of an investigation into vice conditions here, was in progress at police headquarters here today.

Last night was the second time the underworld has struck back at him since he launched his probe into the activities of gangsters and bootleggers here, Ross admitted today.

The councilman has had a series of flourishes installed in his back yard for protection. Last night, shortly before midnight, his wife was awakened when she heard a prowler on the basement stairs.

She awoke her husband, who procured his revolver and went into the kitchen.

"Take that," came a voice from the rear porch and a bullet crashed through the kitchen door striking the wall, near Ross.

The councilman snapped on his floodlight, illuminating the yard and ran onto the porch, where the first shot was fired from. He shot at a figure, lurking in the shadow of a nearby garage. The man fired from the shadow and Ross returned the fire.

By this time a neighbor, Ed Hardesty, awakened by the shooting, and aware of what was happening, had thrown up a bedroom window and fired a shot from a rifle at the prowlers, who then fled.

Ross had by then discovered that the basement of his house was afire. The walls had been soaked with gasoline and ignited, a subsequent investigation disclosed. The fire department was summoned and the blaze quickly extinguished.

Friday night, Ross had a narrow escape from death when intruders turned on gas jets in his home and threw off a main switch, cutting off the electricity. Ross stepped into the house later, pressed an electric light button and when there was no light, was about to strike a match when a neighbor, Mrs. Belle Henderson, seized his arm and told him she smelled gas.

ENVOYS OF FIFTEEN NATIONS SIGN PACT OUT-LAWING WARS

Solemnity Marks Formal Agreement In Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Through the signing of a multilateral treaty renouncing military force as an instrument of national policy, fifteen nations, representing two-thirds of the world's fighting power, agreed today never again to go to war. The rest of the world was invited to take the same pledge.

The scene of this historic event was the Salles Des Horloges in the French foreign office on the Quai D'Orsay, where the League of Nations was born under the sponsorship of Woodrow Wilson, then president of the United States.

The participants in the ceremony composed the most distinguished group of plenipotentiaries since the signing of the Versailles peace treaty.

The solemnity of the occasion was reflected in the attitude of the signatories themselves and the few hundred fortunate persons who were able to gain admittance to the great hall.

Frank B. Kellogg, American secretary of state, who carried on negotiations for the treaty, was one of the outstanding figures at the conference. Next to him stood Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who had originally proposed an anti-war treaty.

In keeping with the spirit of the occasion there was no military display. The nearest approach to it was the presence on the Quai D'Orsay of the Garde Republicaine.

TWO ARRESTED IN PROBE OF HOMICIDE

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Two men today are being held in connection with the mysterious slaying of Stanley Kaczmarek, 35. Kaczmarek was found in Brooklyn yesterday with his throat cut. Police arrested Emil Mickel, 43, and Edward Hallstrom, 50, both of Brooklyn, on charges of homicide in connection with Kaczmarek's death.

Mickel, police say, declared that his automobile stopped in front of Anthony Agunisch's home, and Kaczmarek and Hallstrom got out to get Agunisch. Mickel, the police assert, said Hallstrom returned to the car alone, and stated that Kaczmarek was missing. Mickel started the car, he said, and while members of the party were looking for Kaczmarek, they found his body.

Ryan said he did not observe the Mitchell car until too late to avoid the crash. He is said to have declared the Mitchell car displayed no tail light and that this together with the fact the headlights on an auto approaching from the opposite direction blinded him, was responsible for his failure to notice the stalled machine.

Mitchell was walking behind the car and may have observed a view of the tail light if it was burning. Ryan said he swerved his auto but the colored man was caught between the cars, Sessler was hurled into a field.

Ryan's car continued into a ditch, crashed through a hedge and came to a stop in a field. William Ringer was thrown through the windshield. A Xenia youth known as "Ace" Sturgeon and a fifth boy, whose name was not learned, were unhurt.

Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, arrived too late to render aid to the dying man. Sheriff Ohmer Tate and Coroner F. M. Chambliss were also called to the scene. The body was removed to the Johnson and Watkins funeral parlors in Xenia and taken to Dayton Sunday by Jones Bros. Dayton undertakers.

Ryan was not held. Coroner Chambliss will hold an inquest Monday evening.

WILL TEST SANITY SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 27.—While Governor Smith was being closely guarded today a sanity test was to be given to Thomas Connahan, twenty-two, Philadelphia electrician, who attempted to force his way into the governor's suite in the Monmouth Hotel at 1:30 a. m.

It was learned today, as police questioned Connahan, that the Philadelphia electrician also had planned to get a "personal interview" with Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee. As in the case of Governor Smith, Connahan said, he wished "to see if Hoover were a fit man to be president."

Connahan was to be examined by County Physician Clayton. He was held in $1,000 bail after arraignment, and is at the Monmouth County Jail.

Following Connahan's arrest, police searched his bag, but found only some fishing tackle and a typewriter. He had no weapon.

ANNUAL OHIO STATE FAIR OPENS MONDAY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 27.—Billed by the management as "the world's greatest agricultural exposition," the Ohio State Fair swung open its doors here today and launched initial attractions of a program scheduled to extend over a period of eight days.

C. V. Truax, state director of agriculture, and E. H. Campbell, president of state board of agriculture, who delivered brief addresses prior to the official opening, voiced their belief that the largest state fair crowds on record will attend the exposition.

Representing a more comprehensive array of the world's agriculture, art, industry, commerce, aviation, racing and live stock than has ever been attempted, this year's fair is a $5,000,000 institution, exposition officials declared.

Today has been officially designated as "Columbus Day" and an early hour more than 200 Columbus children were flocking to the fair, to participate in various athletic contests.

Racing events were to feature the afternoon's program. Turf fans evinced considerable interest in the card which included a 2:25 trot, purse $1,200; a 2:15 pace, purse $1,000, and a 2:15 pace, purse $1,000.

DAYTON MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT; FOUR OTHERS HURT

John Mitchell, Colored, Crushed Fatally In Collision

One man was killed and four others hurt, not seriously, in a peculiar auto accident at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night on the Xenia and Jamestown Pike, one and one-half miles west of Jamestown.

John Mitchell, 39, colored, 1862 Lakeview Ave., Dayton, O., died from a crushed chest and with both legs broken below the hips thirty minutes after the crash.

Peter Mitchell, father of the dead man, received a cut over the right eye which required one stitch to close.

Others injured were: William Ringer, Xenia, cut about the face; Clarence Jones, Xenia, lacerations on face and arms; Jacob Sessler, farmer, near Jamestown, minor lacerations and a dislocated thumb. All are white.

Mitchell was fatally injured when an auto driven by Clarence Ryan, W. Second St., Xenia, crashed into the rear end of the Mitchell machine, which was being pushed along the road.

Mitchell, his father and three other colored men, who escaped unhurt, were driving to Jamestown to attend a moonlight church picnic.

Near Jamestown, their auto ran out of oil and water. They borrowed some from Sessler. When the motor refused to start Sessler helped the five push it along the road.

Ryan said he did not observe the Mitchell car until too late to avoid the crash. He is said to have declared the Mitchell car displayed no tail light and that this together with the fact the headlights on an auto approaching from the opposite direction blinded him, was responsible for his failure to notice the stalled machine.

HUGE CROWD GREET SENATOR FESS WHEN HE EXPLAINS TREATY

Hundreds Overflow New Auditorium; Weather Smiles

Climaxing international efforts toward world peace, the Kellogg Treaty, designed in the interest of outlawing war, is to be signed Monday by fifteen countries, including the six most powerful nations of the earth, explained United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, in an address which featured the community service in connection with the opening of the Home-Coming celebration Sunday night in the newly-completed open-air pavilion in Shawnee Park.

Addressing an audience of Xenia residents and Home-Comers estimated at more than 1,500 people, Senator Fess said this item is of greatest international interest at present. The treaty consists of two substantive articles.

"The climax of international efforts toward world peace, the United States has stood as the leader in the movement to limit armament, as the surest guarantee against aggression war. After the Washington Limitation of Arms Conference, our next step was to reduce our own army to the minimum, the conference's action being limited to the navy. Our example was not followed by Europe, led by France, which pleaded the lack of a treaty of security as a necessary condition of limitation.

"After the failure of the tripartite treaty of 1919, the quadruple treaty of 1922, the quintuple proposal of 1924, largely through the influence of an American diplomat, the Locarno conference was held, and the security treaty signed and ratified. This was the basis for the American proposal of armament limitation in the Geneva Conference of last summer.

"It was a shocking disappointment when France, seconded by Italy, rejected our proposal. To somewhat soften the hurt, which France felt from an aroused public opinion on account of her rejection, the proposal of the United States to outlaw by resolution in a form of a treaty between the two countries was submitted by France.

"While there is little basis for hope of completely outlawing war by resolution, in the clang of armament in the munitions plants, it would be valuable to the degree that it would assist in directing the public mind towards channels of peace in building up a body of conviction against war. Any effort resulting in an aggressive attitude

SELECT JURY FOR LEO KELLEY TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 27.—Selection of the jury to try Leo P. Kelley, the "handsome butcher boy," charged with slaying Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, society matron, was expected to be completed by noon today.

Eight women and three men have been tentatively accepted by both sides.

Frank Mellus, wealthy sportsman and husband of Mrs. Mellus, is scheduled to be the first witness called. It was Mellus who discovered the body of his wife upon returning from a fishing trip. He called police who found Kelly hiding in a closet of the house.

Kelley, who admits that he had been an admirer of Mrs. Mellus for the past five years, denies any knowledge of the slaying. He said he hid in the closet when he heard footsteps at the front door.

Both defense and prosecution have retained women attorneys to assist in the case.

KILLED BY BANDITS WHEN FOOT SLIPPED

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Ben Benjamin, 33, is dead from bandit bullets because his foot slipped.

Benjamin, who runs a street car nival, was returning to his home early today with Max Kleiger and Sam Gluskin, associated with him in the carnival, when a car drew alongside of them.

A man waved a revolver from the running board of the second car and commanded the carnival men to halt.

Benjamin, who was driving, became so excited, that he put on the brakes, halted momentarily, and then his foot slipped on the clutch, and the car jerked forward. Instantly five shots were sent in his direction, one inflicting a mortal wound in his chest and another going through Gluskin's hat, barely grazing his hair.

According to officers, the body had been hanging for at least three months. The man had been fairly well dressed. His cap has a Sidney O. mark.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 27.—Coroner Edwin C. Ganzhorn was investigating today the hanging of an unidentified man about 60. The body was found suspended from the limb of a tree about a mile from the city.

According to officers, the body had been hanging for at least three months. The man had been fairly well dressed. His cap has a Sidney O. mark.

HUGE CROWD GREETSENATOR FESS WHEN HE EXPLAINS TREATY

of public mind against war as an effort of settling disputes is a great value and a forward looking step when should be respected and supported by the peaceful nations.

"Because of this fact our government last April expressed its approval in case the treaty be made multilateral instead of unilateral. France agreed to extend its operations if limited to aggressive war. In view of the fact that no nation ever admits its fault, limitation and pressed the necessity of including all wars if effectual results were desirable.

"Tomorrow the treaty will be signed, first signed by the United States, and then followed by fourteen other countries representing what are known to be all the great powers of earth. It will then be left open to be signed by all other nations who desire to join in the effort.

"While the treaty is not a guarantee against war, it is the greatest moral step in that direction that can today be taken. It is a pledge that war will not be resorted to except in self-defense, it should prevent self-aggression, heretofore a breeder of wars, and all the employment of force to realize national ambitions. In lieu of the failure to induce European countries to limit their armies as we have already done, as the one substantial way to lessen the dangers of war, if not to guarantee against them, it may be the first step in that direction which will be inevitable if a nation continues to be an economic force in the world. In this sense the Kellogg treaty gives promise of becoming a great stride forward toward world peace. It is another page in the superb record of America in her ambition to lead the world to higher levels."

Senator Fess opened his speech with an enthusiastic tribute to Xenia and Greene County, complimenting Xenians on their civic spirit as exemplified in the Home-Coming celebration and the erection of the new auditorium in Shawnee Park.

"A true gauge of human progress is the organized movement on behalf of community welfare. There have been individual efforts in the past largely confined to relief work. These efforts have given to the world the great names of Nightingale, Barton, and many others. In time the cause called into being the Red Cross movement, which is already world wide in its scope and achievement."

"Not until after the World War did the modern movement of community welfare, operating upon lines of constructive sympathy claim attention. The movement of the 'community chest' for relief work among the indigent was a distinct and far-reaching community program for relief. That effort was supplemented by the constructive organization looking to building into the life of the community a sentiment of community interest for the advancement of the best in that community, where individual impulse to do good passes over into general co-operation in the interest of the public good, where each is for all and all for each."

"No better example can be found than here in Xenia with its well-known conservative population, where such a beautiful park has been supplied in which are held various meetings of town-interest, and now at great expense opens this splendid amphitheater with the ambitious Home-Coming program, with the attendance of men and women of note, not confined to Greene Countians, but includes visitors of renown representing various arms of the government at Washington and elsewhere. Our state and nation are to be congratulated upon such movements for community advancement."

Dr. John C. Acheson, president of Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., presided at the evening program and introduced the speaker. A feature of the musical program was the playing of the Hallelujah chorus by Kyllis Dunkel and Edward Hart, both of New York and church organists of note, at one piano, and Mrs. Stella Bishop Alden and Miss Marjorie Street at another piano. They played the accompaniment for the singing.

Messrs. Dunkel and Hart are both former Greene Countians and are visiting relatives here during the Home-Coming.

The community service opened with singing by the congregation and music by the community choir under the direction of Mrs. W. H. McGervey. Prayer was offered by the Rev. W. H. Telford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, followed by congregational singing and the address by Senator Fess.

The program closed with the Doxology by the congregation and the benediction delivered by the Rev. H. B. McElree, pastor of the Second U. P. Church.

The new community house where the service was held was filled to overflowing. Normally built to accommodate 1,200 people, several hundred more persons, unable to find seats, stood on the outside through the service. Workmen under Harry Sparks, who designed the building and supervised construction, completed the building Saturday in record breaking time.

Fair weather helped make the home-coming opening auspicious.

CLEVELAND WANTS 1929 PLANE RACES

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—Cleveland, often called the "City of Conventions" is making its bid for the national air races in 1929.

The Chamber of Commerce here and the Cleveland branch of the National Aeronautic Association have announced that they will try to bring the big air show to Cleveland.

Last year the races were held at Spokane, Wash., and are to be held this year at Los Angeles.

One of the features of the schedule is the transcontinental air race. If Cleveland should be selected for next year's races, revision of the program would have

PARADE TUESDAY EXPECTED TO BE FEATURE OF HOME-COMING

The "Merchants' Manufacturers' and Farmers' Parade," scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, is expected to be one of the outstanding features of the Home-Coming.

Four cash prizes totalling $105 are being offered for prize-winning floats. These include: First prize of $40 for the float best representative of its line of business; second prize of $25 for the most artistically decorated float; third prize of $20 for the best decorated auto from the auto dealers of Greene

County; fourth prize of $20 for the best decorated float of farm produce.

The parade will include all the merchants, manufacturers, business men and farmers of Greene County. Each line of business should be represented and every entrant is asked to decorate his auto.

The entrants will assemble at Main and Columbus Sts. The column will move south on Columbus to Second St.; west on Second to West St.; north on West to Main St.; east on Main to Monroe St.; north on Monroe to Market St.; west on Market to West St.; north on West to Church St.; east on Church to Detroit St. boulevard and around the Shawnee Park drive to Edison Ave.

PAST MASTERS OF GRANGE HONORED

Greene County Pomona Grange held its August meeting with Pleasant Grange at Bowersville, Thursday. The regular morning business session was topped by an elaborate covered dish luncheon.

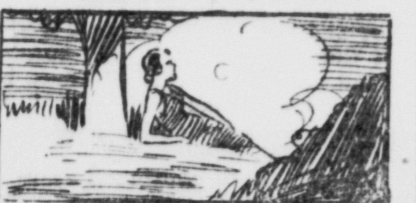

The program in the afternoon was as follows: Song by the Grange, entitled "Feeding the Nation"; reading by Mrs. Maywood Turner of Miami Grange, entitled "Cleaning Up"; Rev. Frank Gordon of Jamestown Grange gave an interesting address on "Why the Farmer is Usually a Good Citizen," followed by a song by the Grange, entitled "My Old Rural Home" and a talk by the lecturer, Mrs. Elsie J. Campbell, entitled "How You Can Make Fifty Per Cent Profit From Your Laying Hens."

This talk was followed by an impressive service in honor of the past Pomona masters of Greene County, who were honor guests of the occasion. Albert Burrell of Xenia Grange was presented with a bouquet of gladioli in recognition of his being the oldest past Pomona master living. Guy H. Gordon, present master who is also a past master also received honors.

Poems that Live

WOMEN'S LONGING
Tell me what is that only thing
For which all women long;
Yet, having what they most desire,
To have it does them wrong?

'Tis not to be chaste, nor fair,
(Such gifts malice may impair),
Richly trimmed, to walk or ride,
Or to wanton on a spouse,
To preserve an honest name
And so to give it up to fame—
These are toys. In good or ill
They desire to have their will:
Yet, when they have it, they
abuse it,
For they know not how to use it.

SHOOTS WOLF IN OHIO VILLAGE

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—The pelt of a full grown wolf, shot within the limits of Euclid village near here is to be presented to the Cleveland Museum of Natural history here.

Patrolman Edward Ryberg bagged the wolf after numerous reports of chicken and domestic rabbit thefts.

Early in the morning the patrol man saw the wolf slinking across the fields and killed it with a charge from a shotgun. The animal weighed sixty pounds.

The wolf's presence in that vicinity remains unexplained, though it was pointed out that it could have crossed from Canada during the past winter.

INJURED WHEN TWO AUTOS CRASH SUNDAY

Orville Hollingsworth, Bowersville, had an artery in his knee severed and received severe bruises when he was thrown through a windshield, after the auto in which he was an occupant collided with a car occupied by William Thompson and David Victor, Loeb, Ky., on the Jamestown-Washington Pike, seven miles east of Jamestown, Sunday evening.

Hollingsworth was riding with Eber Johnson, Edgefield, owner of the car. Johnson, Thompson and Victor were unhurt. The Johnson machine was badly damaged.

Hollingsworth and Johnson were driving toward Jamestown and the accident occurred when the second car attempted to pass, going in the same direction, and hooked fenders. The Kentucky car was undamaged. Thompson and Victor paid the cost of the damages.

ENVOYS OF FIFTEEN NATIONS SIGN PACT OUT-LAWING WARS

which saluted each of the foreign ministers and ambassadors as he arrived at the foreign office.

Inside the Salle Des Horloges, the signatories took their places around a large horse shoe shaped table covered with red baize.

M. Briand and Mr. Kellogg had places at the top and center of the table. Chief interest centered upon these two men who had inaugurated and carried out the plan for a world treaty renouncing war.

It was a historic moment as the delegates faced these two statesmen who had labored ceaselessly for fifteen months to bring about this peace pact.

At 3 o'clock Foreign Minister Briand formally called the brilliant assemblage to order, and welcomed the plenipotentiaries on behalf of the government of France. He described briefly the efforts that had gone into the making of the treaty about to be signed and then called for the reading of the document itself.

Both the English and French texts were read, and although the statesmen gathered about the big red horseshoe knew each word and phrase as well as they knew their own names, they leaned forward to catch every word of the 800 odd words.

First were recited the names of the monarchs or presidents of the fifteen nations adhering to the treaty and then began the actual text:

"Deeply sensible of their solemn duty to promote the welfare of mankind:

"Persuaded that the time has come when a frank renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy should be made to the end that the peaceful and friendly relations now existing between their peoples may be perpetuated:

"Convinced that all changes in their relations with one another should be sought only by pacific means and be the result of a peaceful and orderly process, and that any signatory power which shall hereafter seek to promote its national interests by resort to war should be denied the benefits furnished by this treaty;

"Hopeful that, encouraged by their example, all the other nations of the world will join in this humane endeavor and by adhering to the present treaty as soon as it comes into force, bring their peoples within scope of its beneficent provisions."

For the first time in sixty-one years Germany will be represented at a diplomatic conference here by her foreign minister, Dr. Gustave Stresemann, acting in behalf of Germany will be the first to sign the treaty. Secretary Kellogg will follow for the United States. The other signatures will come in the following order:

Paul Hymans, Belgian foreign minister.

Armand Briand, French foreign minister.

Lord Cushenden, representing the British foreign minister. He will also sign for northern Ireland and India.

MacKenzie King, prime minister of Canada.

Senator McLachlan, representing the Australian prime minister.

Sir C. J. Parr, for New Zealand.

J. S. Smith, Union of South Africa.

Count Mazoni, Italian ambassador to France.

August Saleski, Polish minister to France.

Edouard Benes, Czechoslovakian foreign minister.

SCENES AS COUNTY HOME-COMING OPENS

REV. FURSTENBERGER ASSIGNED TO LEWISBURG, O., PASTORATE

The Rev. A. J. Furstenberger, who has been a Xenia pastor for the last six years, more than three years as pastor of the United Brethren Church here was assigned to the pastorate of the U. B. Church at Lewisburg, Ohio, at the nineteenth annual session of the U. B. Conference, which closed Sunday at Oak St., U. B. Church, Dayton.

The Rev. S. L. Brill, who has been U. M. minister at West Manchester, O., has been assigned to the Xenia church. The Rev. Mr. Furstenberger was transferred in a wave of reassignments during which an unusual number of transfers were made at the conference.

In a statement Monday the Xenia minister did not indicate whether he would accept the appointment at Lewisburg. He said he will investigate the pastorate there and while his present information regarding it is satisfactory, his chief interest lies in success of the Xenia congregation.

William Dudley, delegate from the Xenia church pleaded for the return of the Rev. Mr. Furstenberger to the Xenia church. If he accepts the Lewisburg appointment he will fill the pulpit there for the first time Sunday, September 9. By previous arrangement he will fill the local pulpit next Sunday morning as an anniversary service.

The Rev. and Mrs. Furstenberger were married in a United Brethren Church on a Sunday afternoon, twenty-eight years ago and congregation will join them in celebrating the event next Sunday. This year's Miami Conference session was said to be one of the best in its history, due largely to the reception of the proposed union of the denomination with the Reformed Church of the United States and the two main branches of the Evangelical Church.

It took much puffing of steam, chugging of wheels, strewing of cinders and crushed stone on the track, and aid and encouragement lent by the crowds of excited children who lined the right of way, before Engineer John Strine of Baltimore, finally got the tiny pioneer Baltimore and Ohio main line along Washington St., Monday.

The little wheels would slip on the track, and as there was no way of screwing sand to make them hold, like there is on modern engines, the puffing little engine resisted efforts to make it move more than a few feet on the slight up grade. Finally it got under way, and at the rate of about eight miles an hour, and with the gleeful children chasing along, it steamed its way to the main track near the Eavey Co. warehouse. Then it was delayed a little again before it made its way up the little incline onto the main track.

The little train will make regular trips on the railroad Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and give free rides to the public as long as anybody appears.

Besides Engineer Strine, a conductor, flagman and two brakemen will assist in running the little train and avoiding accidents. Lieutenant J. H. Watts from Captain Vesly's office sergeant and two B. and O. police sergeants, Davis and Sorman, are part of the force which is seeing that everything

WEATHER SMILES ON HOME-COMING HERE

The 1928 Greene County Home-Coming, which Xenia is celebrating jointly as the twentieth anniversary of the similar event in 1908 and its own 125th anniversary opened Sunday with fair weather prevailing.

The celebration was inaugurated informally with individual services in the various churches and with former pastors, here for the Home-Coming, preaching the sermons wherever possible. Interesting musical features were also provided.

OLD SHOE DISPLAY
Twenty years are spanned in a shoe display on exhibition in the show windows at the Frazer Shoe Store, E. Main St.

In keeping with the Home-Coming theme, shoes worn by men and women in 1908 are contrasted with the styles in 1928. Twenty years ago high shoes were the fashion and the toes were extremely pointed.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctor's word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

Reserves Enjoy Batting Spree; Win Game 23 To 6

LEEPER SUBJECTED TO SEVERE ASSAULT IN RUBBER CONTEST

Homers Help Locals Beat Grismer Fuels Here Sunday

In the wildest orgy of hitting ever seen at Washington Park, the Reserves went on a rampage and overpowered the Grismer Fuels of Dayton by main force, 23 to 6 Sunday afternoon.

That the Reserves broke out with an epidemic of base hits is attested by the fact the local nine gathered twenty-three hits, including two home runs, six doubles and a triple for a total of thirty-seven bases.

Klee Kline and Sam Tangeman both exploded circuit smashes during the festivities, in both instances with the bases empty. "Lefty" Leeper usually Reserve jinx, the starting mound assignment for Dayton, vanished in the fifth inning after the Reserves had lambasted his offerings for twelve hits and fourteen runs. Stringfellow, the relief pitcher, was not much of a relief, but finished the game despite continued assaults by the home nine.

In the fifth round, which witnessed Leeper's retirement, the Reserves made nine hits and scored eleven runs. Fifteen batters stepped to the plate in this hectic inning.

The Reserves hit safely in every inning and scored one or more runs in every stanza but the eighth. McMichael, Reserve batter, has merely a workout because of the batting support accorded him. He allowed eleven hits, three of which were bunched for two runs in the third and four additional tallies in the sixth.

Every Reserve player got at least one blow into safe territory and everybody but Johnson personally scored at least one run. Cyphers, Reserve third baseman, was the batting star of the contest. Shaking off a hitting slump, Cyphers pounded out four hits, including a double, and walked once in six times at bat. Conley, Tangeman, Weller and McMichael each got three hits while Kline and Fisher made two apiece. Leeper and F. Krumm were the only visitors to make two hits off McMichael.

The contest was played on a winner-take-all basis, the Reserves getting the entire gate receipts. The victory gave the local nine the season's series with the Grismer Fuels, two games to one. It also marked the eighteenth Reserve victory against two defeats.

Reserves will open a three-game series with the Springfield Eddie Taylors, foremost colored team of that city, Sunday afternoon at Washington Park. Many of the colored stars, who formerly played with the Dayton Marcos last season, have joined the Springfield team this year.

During the series with the Eddie Taylors the admission will be 50 cents instead of 35 cents to the games. The Reserve management announces, this boost in price is made necessary by the fact members of the Springfield team are all high-salaried players and the Reserve players will also be given more money.

LITTLE WORLD SERIES STARTS THURSDAY NIGHT AT COX FIELD

The first game of Xenia's "world series," a three-game series between the Grismer Fuels, champions of the National League, and the Carroll-Binder Co., champions of the American League to decide the 1928 city softball championship, will be played Thursday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, it is announced.

The contest will begin promptly at 6 o'clock. It is pointed out that the game must begin on time in order that the full nine innings may be played before darkness interferes.

The second game will be played

Friday night and if a third game proves necessary to decide the title it will be played next Tuesday night.

The contending teams shape up as evenly matched. Both teams lost only two games in their respective leagues during the season. Carroll-Binder won its last eight straight games.

Paul Boxwell will probably pitch for Grismer Thursday night with Neville working for Carroll-Binder Co.

It is understood that E. Boxwell and T. Rachford will be the umpires.

"Hurry Up" Yost Hurrying Back

By JACK SORDS
Sports Cartoonist-Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

The first real football news of the year is the report from the University of Michigan that Fielding H. Yost will again assume the direction of the Wolverine eleven after a year's absence.

Yost had been a dominant factor in the development of great Michigan teams over a period of twenty-six years, but stepped aside last fall to become the director of athletics at the university. Elton Wieman, who at one time played under Yost, became head coach.

This year the situation at Michigan is not what it might be. Many of last year's stars are lost through graduation, and the outlook is none too bright. This makes a perfect setting for the return of Yost. Not that Wieman was a failure, but Yost is a known quantity and has faced such a situation before, making a powerful team from almost entirely raw material. It is almost a certainty that he will do the same this fall. There may not be many players on the squad who look like all-American prospects when the season opens, but there will be before it closes.

Yost's career as a coach has been a long and colorful one. He played his first game at West Virginia in 1894. It also happened to be the first game he ever witnessed. He later entered Lafayette and was a member of the first Lafayette team to defeat Pennsylvania. During those years he developed a great liking for the game and on completing his studies started out on what was destined to become a great coaching career. After coaching at Ohio Wesleyan and Nebraska he came to Michigan in 1901, and from the very start produced powerful elevens.

Charles W. Bryan, candidate for governor of Nebraska, who declares he will support the Democratic ticket from the president down. His decision is considered significant in light of bitter opposition of his famous brother, the late William Jennings Bryan, to Governor Smith.

EXHIBIT CANE MADE FROM HISTORIC BEAM

A cane made from the original beam on which the Liberty Bell was hung is a part of the historical collection in the homecoming exhibit in Central High School in charge of Dr. W. A. Gallows.
The cane was loaned to the exhibit by Mrs. Lucy Griscom Morgan, wife of President Arthur E. Morgan of Antioch College. Mrs. Morgan's uncle, who was a councilman in Philadelphia, was the owner of the cane, and a band which encircles the stick was made of flings from the Liberty Bell swept up by Mr. Griscom when the crack in the bell was repaired many years ago. The cane was presented to his brother, William Griscom, from whom she inherited it.

ROBBERS TAKE HUGE SAFE AND CONTENTS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Robbers who carried away a safe weighing a half ton and containing $1,800 are the object of a search conducted by police today.
The thieves broke into the Loblaws grocery store here yesterday and got away with the safe before the burglary was discovered. Later the safe with the cash missing was found on the outskirts of the city.

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Auditor of the City of Xenia, Ohio, until twelve o'clock noon on the 19th day of September, 1928, for the purchase of bonds of said City in the aggregate sum of Eleven Thousand dollars, ($11,000.00), dated September 1, 1928. Said bonds will be eleven in number and numbered from one (1) to eleven (11) both inclusive. Each said bond will be in the denomination of One Thousand Dollars, ($1,000.00), and will draw interest at the rate of five and one-half (5½%) per cent per annum, payable semi annually on the first days of September and March of each year. Said bonds will be due and payable as follows: One bond on September 1st in each of the years from 1929 to 1938, both inclusive, except two of said bonds will mature in 1936 and two in 1938.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of creating a fund for the purchase of a motor fire apparatus for the protection of the corporation and the inhabitants of the City of Xenia, Ohio, and under authority of the laws of Ohio particularly the Uniform Bond Act of the General Code, and in accordance with a certain ordinance of the City of Xenia, Ohio, entitled, "An ordinance providing for the issuance of bonds of the City of Xenia for the purpose of purchasing a motor fire apparatus for the protection of the corporation and the inhabitants thereof."

Bidders may present a bid for such bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest than herein fixed, on condition that where a fractional interest rate is bid such fraction shall be one-quarter of one (¼) per cent or multiple thereof.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest and best bidder at not less than par and accrued interest.

All bids must state the number of bonds bid for and the gross amount of the bid and accrued interest to date of delivery. COAST GUARD INQUIRY LOOMS

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Seymour Lowman, left, and Representative W. W. Chalmers, of Toledo.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Promiscuous firing at pleasure craft by coast guardsmen makes a congressional investigation appear imminent.

Complaints of federal crews firing on innocent yachts and other pleasure boats in their efforts to curb run running have been pouring into Washington since last spring, when the Great Lakes coast guard force was augmented by a dozen new cutters.

When coast guardsmen fired on a Buffalo, N. Y. yacht, a few weeks ago which carried among its men and women passengers, Frank Raichle, Buffalo attorney and law partner of Colonel William J. Donovan, assistant United States attorney general, officials at Washington began to take notice.

The latest incident occurred recently when a coast guard crew was alleged to have fired on two boats owned by Carlton Baumgartner and Lloyd Hixon of Toledo, O. Congressman W. W. Chalmers of Toledo has requested treasury officials to investigate the affairs, and it is expected he will insist on a congressional inquiry.

Seymour Lowman, in charge of government prohibition enforcement, has approved the action of coast guardsmen in firing at boats which fail to heed signals. He has stated that in all cases no shots are fired until after both flag or whistle signals have been ignored. In the instance of the Buffalo craft, at least, no warning was given before the coast guard crew opened fire, according to the passengers aboard the pleasure craft.

DANCE MARATHONS IN CLEVELAND ARE TABOO SAYS CHIEF

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—Dance marathons are taboo in Cleveland, according to Safety Director Edwin E. Barry who stated his opinion concerning the endurance contests in no uncertain terms.

"What, a marathon dance in Cleveland? I should say not," Barry declared with indignation when asked about a proposed contest that was to be held at the Public Hall. "Dance marathons are the loudest racket of all the rackets in existence. There will never be one in Cleveland as long as I am Safety Director," Barry continued.

"Maybe it wouldn't be so bad if they would dance them straight to death," the safety director philosophically remarked. "But they don't," he declared. "They allow them to rest and revive them with massage and medical treatment. It is slow torture. I won't stand for people being killed by inches in Cleveland."

Barry's view of the marathon dancing was revealed when application was made by Jack Fisher of New York, for a permit allowing them to stage a marathon dance in the public hall. Fisher and his associates offered $16,000 for the use of the hall, it was reported.

The safety director said that he had not only refused the above offer but many other innumerable requests for permits to hold marathons in Cleveland dance halls.

AUTOIST HURT WHEN MACHINES COLLIDE

Allen Bone, 25, son of J. A. Bone, Wilmington Pike, suffered a scalp wound on the forehead and bruised cheek bone when his small coupe was struck by an automobile driven by George Hagler, New Burlington and Spring Valley Pike on S. Detroit St., near the Baltimore and Ohio railroad crossing about 5 p. m. Sunday.

Bone's wounds were dressed at Espey Hospital. Bone, who was driving south on Detroit St., accompanied by his cousin, Harold McMillen, turned into Home Ave. in front of the Hagler car, which was traveling south on Detroit St. Hagler said that he was unable to avoid striking the smaller car, which was crowded against a telephone pole. The windshield was shattered and the driver's head struck the pole. McMillen was unhurt.

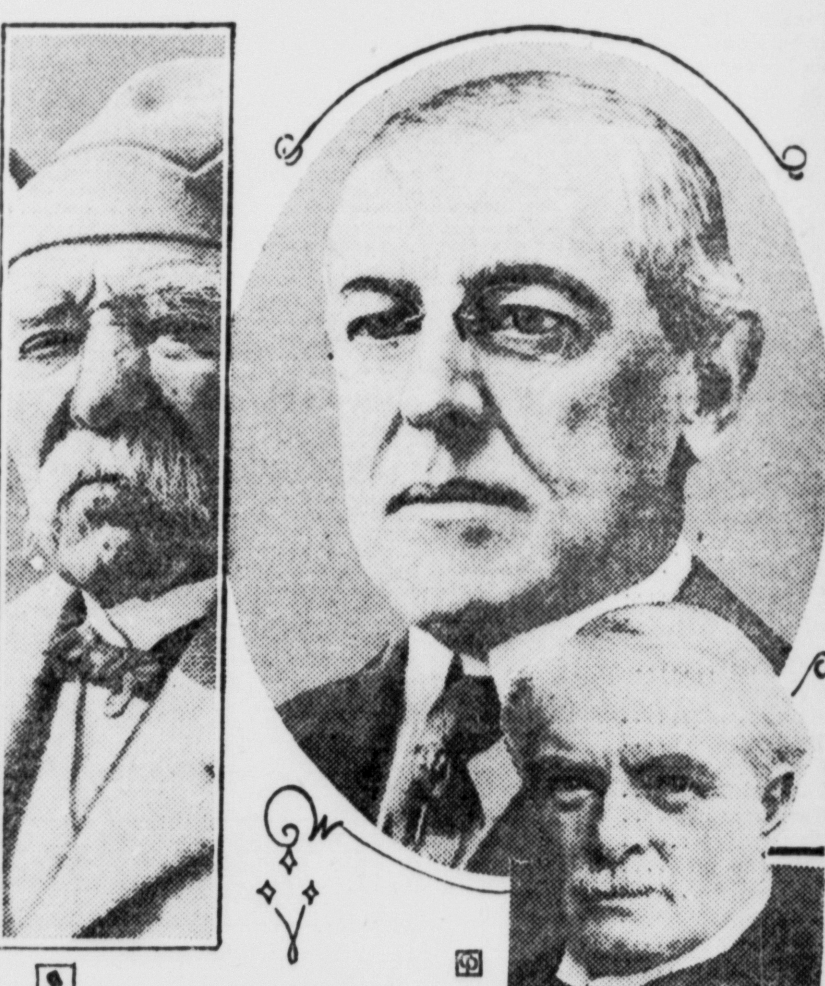

MAKE-UP A Romance of the Footlights ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

READ THIS FIRST:
Janet Mary James, eighteen, has an ambition to go on the stage, because her mother, who died last night she was born, had been a famous opera star. In New York Janet meets Ballard Riley, successful young physician, who is known as a woman hater. At first it was great fun for Janet to have dates with Ballard and tease him about his ideas. Later, Janet knows she loves Ballard, but he keeps her guessing. Mort Goldstein, producer of famous musical shows, sees that Janet has talent and plans to star her in a new musical show. Her father, a former mountain parson, reaches Broadway, too, and is holding a sensational revival up town. The newspapers learn of this, and give Janet a lot of publicity. Goldstein hopes to sign up the parson for a big revival in Madison Square Garden while Janet is starring in the "Blue Flashes of 1928," Goldstein's latest revue. In the show is Maxine Griffith, whom Janet helped in the rehearsal days, when the little chorus girl went broke. They became great friends. Janet's arch enemy is Rhodine Deslys, who is jealous of Janet's success, and snubs her on every occasion. Janet meets Della De Lacy, a show girl, at a night club. Della invites Janet to come and see her little boy Dennis Reilly. Goldstein's new show opens with Janet as the star. Janet persuades Ballard to attend the opening night of the new show. Flodine, in a rage, determines to get even with Janet. She is seen entering Janet's dressing room, during the show, by Lotus Flower, little Chinese maid. After the show, Ballard goes around to the stage door to meet Janet. Just as he reaches the door he hears angry voices. Flodine accuses Janet of taking her diamond ring. It is a pretty cheap trick, and while no one believes Flodine, Janet is afraid of the publicity on account of Ballard. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV
Ballard's emotions were mingled as he sat in the studio with the weeping Janet.
In a way, he felt sorry for her. In another, he hoped so many unpleasant things would happen to her that she would get a little sense pounded into her head.
But his mind was made up to one thing. He could no longer jeopardize his position and his career by being seen with her so often. She would probably get into some sort of a big scandal one of these days—and where would he be? Right on the front page with her!
She clung around his neck until she was thoroughly cried out—and he petted her absently. His heart was not in comforting her. Janet dried her eyes and powdered her nose. Her voice was small and babyish as she sat on the arm of his chair trying to smile.
"Love me, Ballard. I'm so unhappy."
He pulled her to his lap automatically. She saw the expression on his face. His eyes showed no sympathy, and he looked bored and indifferent. Janet froze with a sudden fear. Something was wrong—or he would not look like that.
She reached up and pulled his head down to her lips, but there was no response in his kiss.
"Oh, Ballard," she drew back and begged him suddenly. "What is the matter? Are you angry about something?"
He pushed her from his lap and got up. Crossing the room, he picked up his hat and started toward the door. She was unable to move from surprise.
"Janet," he said, slowly. "I can't talk about it now, but I do want to have a serious talk with you very soon. We must come to an understanding."
Her throat was dry, and she felt dizzy. The time had come. He was through. She tried to sound natural.
"I think now is the time to talk. Please don't leave me in suspense like this. I feel badly enough."
He sat down on the edge of the divan and twirled his hat in his hands, slowly. How could he tell her the things he wanted to say?
"Well, Janet," he said finally, with an effort. "We can't go on like this, under the circumstances. Not with all the notoriety you are bringing on yourself. I can't afford to become involved in a mess like that—and you are going to break your neck. You can't keep up like this without coming to a sad realization some of these days that you have made a bitter mistake."
She wanted to cry out to him, frantically, but she sat in the chair and asked, slowly:
"You mean the show—you think that is a mistake. That I should not have capitalized on my father's actions—all that?"
"Yes. And this ring business. That is a jealous frame-up, and it is certain to get in the papers."
Her lip curled. She was angry. Suddenly:
"Oh, I suppose I can help that, can't I? So you are afraid of being accused of being with a thief."
He got up suddenly, and crossed to her:
"Stop that! You know I would stand by you if you needed a friend. No matter what trouble you were in. But you don't need a friend. You need to be taken and caged until you get some sense."
She was on her feet in an instant.
"How dare you talk like that to me! Do you think I am a child?" He smiled bitterly.
"No. Unfortunately, you are not. But you should be, at your age."
She was white with rage. At a loss for words. She stared at him for a moment, then smiled, sarcastically.
"Oh, yes. I am just a little child. And I should be, at my age. I am such a child that I didn't know any better than to try to vamp you." The words came out, ugly, and with a snarl.
Ballard was stunned. He took her by the arms and shook her. "Janet, don't you dare talk that way! Do you know what you are saying?"
She laughed, wildly.
"Do I? Certainly!"
He sat down suddenly and covered his face with his hands.
"Janet, Janet, don't, please, go any further with this! Don't say things you'll be sorry and ashamed of afterwards!"
She was hysterical. It didn't make any difference now what she said. She kept on, bitterly:
"What about all the fine advice you gave me? Didn't you tell me it was all right for a girl to love? Well, I believed all that rot, and I was so crazy about you I thought I could win you that way."
She stood before him, laughing—mad with her grief.
Ballard stared at her for a moment, stunned with her outburst. "My God, Janet, what are you saying?"
She answered defiantly:
"I am telling you that I loved you, and that I thought you would love me."
She sat down and laughed, hysterically. She felt that she was going mad. If this was the end, she would tell him all about it. It didn't make any difference now. Ballard forced her to sit on the divan beside him. His face was white and strained. He begged her:

THEIR GREAT MOMENT

Even The Sun Broke Through The Clouds As Treaty Was Signed.

By IDA H. MCGLOTH GIBSON
Especially Written for Central Press and The Gazette

In talking with Mrs. Eleanor McAdoo, daughter of the late Woodrow Wilson, last year, she said: "I don't want Mr. McAdoo to become president of the United States. My saddest memories are connected with the White House, and all history shows that anyone exalted to the great position of president had to leave the happiness that may be the lot of the average man behind."

It has always seemed to me that Woodrow Wilson had more than his share of unhappiness while in the White House. He lived to see his great ideal of universal peace condemned and himself branded as a selfish politician; and yet there must have been times when he had moments of great exaltation almost too great to bear.

I was in Paris through much of the time the peace commission was in session and the day on which the peace treaty was signed, it seemed to me that the fact that I was an American woman was something of which to be very proud. An American Red Cross A. E. F. uniform was paid a reverence on that day.

We had fought for that peace. We had helped to make it and now we were the first to sign it. The President Signs
President Wilson was very pale as he left his seat and went around the table to where the book lay open, then followed Lloyd George and then Clemenceau, who seemed to have grown two inches in height.

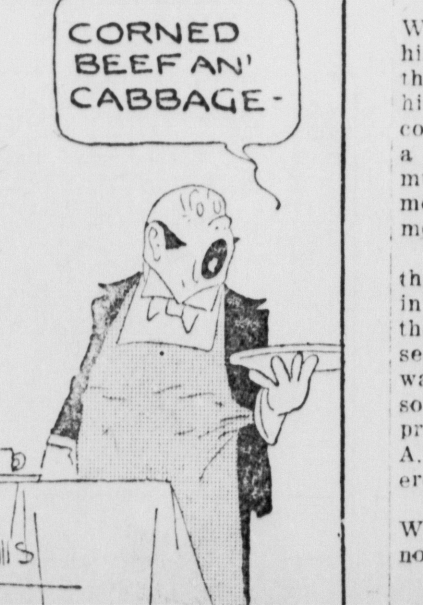

After Clemenceau came the others of the Allied countries. Then there was a moment of silence, so deep you could hear it. Clemenceau got up, went to the two German commissioners and said, "You will sign now." The two Germans walked solemnly to the book and signed.

At that moment the sun broke through the clouds which had given the day a purplish gray cast and the whole world seemed bathed in liquid gold. The famous fountains which had been silent and dead through the war began to play and we in the "Hall of Mirrors" looked out on a scene which probably had never been seen through these historic windows.

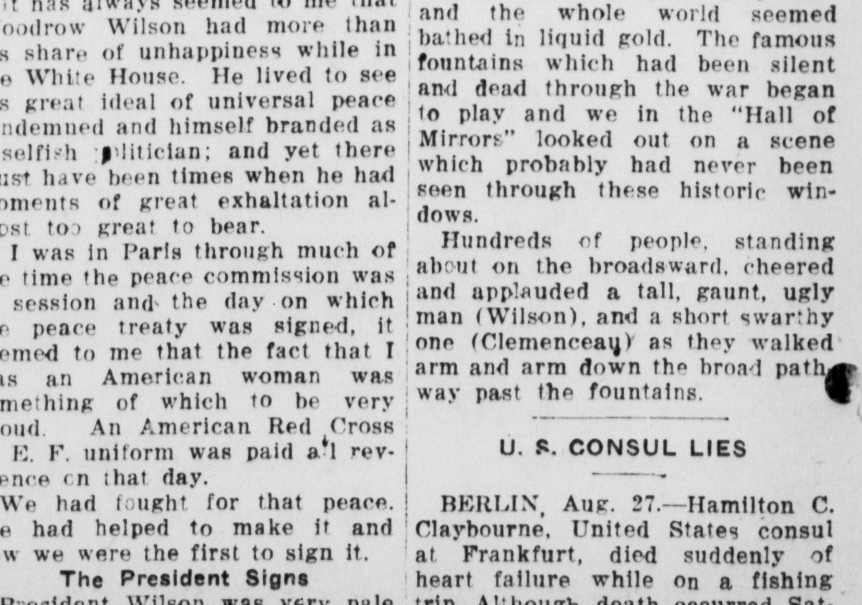

Hundreds of people, standing about on the broadward, cheered and applauded a tall, gaunt, ugly man (Wilson), and a short swarthy one (Clemenceau) as they walked arm and arm down the broad path way past the fountains.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The great movies of any one ear can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Some years are barren of that many. But in recounting those of 1928 are one digit for Emil Jannings' latest—"The Patriot," a truly great picture.

One can usually depend on Jannings for an evening of fine entertainment, and in this picture he shines himself. His performance as Emperor Paul, the mad star of all the Russians, is even better than his depiction of the old hotel porter in his memorable "Last Laugh."

Jannings plays the royal idiot to a ghastly perfection, grimacing at his counselors over matters of state; in an instant he is simpering at the feet of a brilliant favorite; again he is the mad monarch shouting an insane order from the palace windows to his cavalry to ride down crowds gathered to pay homage to his son; and once again, now cowering in his beautiful bed in dread fear of assassination. Fearing, always fearing, until the end, when he rises to dominate his counselors and soldiers.

HOME-COMERS ENJOY "SCHOOL AND LODGE DAY" HERE MONDAY

Monday, the second day of the Greene County Home-Coming, is observed as "School and Lodge Day." No formal program was arranged for the morning hours, which were devoted to a reception for visitors, personifying Xenia hospitality. An especial effort was put forth by Xenians to make returning former residents feel more at home.

The opening program of the day was held at 1:30 o'clock in Shawnee Park auditorium when Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, was scheduled to make the principal address.

Russell Greiner, Kansas City, Mo., former Xenian, who is credited with being responsible for plans which led to the Home-Coming, presided as chairman. A musical feature was also arranged.

Athletic events were scheduled for 3 p. m. at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, including a softball game, wall scaling by Boy Scouts, tennis matches and a tilting match. This is to be followed by an orchestra contest in the auditorium with prizes awarded the winners.

The first parade of the four-day celebration is scheduled for 6:45 p. m. Monday. The procession will move over downtown streets and disband at the auditorium, where a flag presentation ceremony to Greene County Scouts will be in charge of the Daughters of America.

Several changes are announced in the D. of A. program scheduled for Monday night. Under the revised program, the exercises will open at the auditorium immediately after the parade with the address by Mrs. Carrie D. Faulkner, national councillor, Daughters of America.

The Daughters of America Band, Dayton, composed entirely of women, will furnish music, preceding another address by Mrs. Myrtle Wood, state councillor of Daughters of America.

Mrs. Minnie Pillsbury will present the flag to Greene County Boy Scouts on behalf of the O. of A. Ralph Baldwin, a Boy Scout, will make the acceptance talk.

Following the selection, the "Star Spangled Banner," by the Dayton D. of A. Band, the closing prayer will be given by the Rev. James P. Lytle. After the program, a drill by the I. O. O. F. of Dayton will be held on the tennis courts at the park.

The parade will form at Main and Collier S. S. It will move west on Main St., to West St., then south on West St., to Second St.; east on Second to Detroit St.; north on Detroit St., to Church St., then along the Detroit St. boulevard to Shawnee Park where it will disband.

L. S. Barnes will act as grand marshal with Mary Coulter, Allen Haines, R. H. Kingsbury, Louis Hammerle and Arthur Taylor as his assistants.

Following the D. of A. program, dancing will be enjoyed in the auditorium.

QUIVER QUEEN'S HUBBY TOO BOASTFUL; GIL AND GILDA SPLIT

Gilda Gray

By IONE QUINBY
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Way back when Gilda Gray married Gil Boag in Chicago, the latter took me to one side and whispered what a wonderful little girl Gilda, sheba of shimmy shakers, was; how she had reached the top battling for success through thick and thin; how she had never forgotten a friend, and how charming she was in every way.

Then he and Gilda took the guests, including Judge Marcus Kavanagh, who read the marriage service; Lenore Ulrich, the actress, who attended the same childhood parochial school in Milwaukee with Gilda; six members of Ziegfeld's poney ballet; Alexander Gray, the musical comedy star; Gilda's father and mother and the rest of us over to the fashionable hotel next door, where he continued his compliments to Gilda in a lengthy toast.

And I'm wondering whether there won't be a lot of comparing of adjectives amongst those who sat at that wedding breakfast, if Gil replies to Gilda's suit for divorce, as he has threatened to do in a recent interview abroad. As his wife's press agent he has said more flattering things about his better half than any other man alive.

The other day at luncheon the subject of Gilda's suit for divorce came up, and someone asked me whether it was true that they had a shimmy dancer lithographed on the marriage certificate, and if I thought there would be one on the divorce decree. I told them Gilda's checks have shimmy dancers on them, but for the life of me I couldn't remember a thing about the certificate.

The truth is that I was so engrossed at the time counting the diamonds in Gilda's shoe buckles and eight bracelets, and listening to Gil Boag's toasts, that I didn't even think of certificates. However, I wouldn't be surprised if the figure of the little dancer appeared on the contract, because it has appeared in a thousand different places since and Gil was always a good press agent—until the two fell out, as many married couples do.

One can be a Mt. too good a press agent, however. The story of the Gray-Boag wedding laid such stress on Gilda's diamonds that when it was ballyhooed about town a short time afterward two men stole them from her in the lobby of her apartment building. When they had taken the diamond buckles, necklace, eight bracelets, and a pin and ring or two, they said: "Thanks for the broadcast, but you've got a good press agent girlie!"

COLEMAN RITENOUR REMOVED BY DEATH

Coleman Ritenour, 40, prominent young Greene County farmer, died at his home south of Jamestown, at 3:15 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Death followed five months' illness from sarcoma. An operation performed at Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, three months ago, failed to bring relief.

Mr. Ritenour has resided in the Jamestown vicinity fifteen years. He was a member of the Jamestown Methodist Church and was active in the congregation.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Olive Bullock Ritenour; one son, Dale; his mother, Mrs. Anna Ritenour, Jamestown and two brothers, Charles of Jeffersonville and Frank Ritenour, of Toledo.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 at his residence, in charge of the Rev. L. D. Vesey, pastor of the Jamestown Methodist Church. Burial will be made in Jamestown Cemetery.

FATTED CALVES SLAUGHTERED TO FEED XENIA'S PRODIGAL SONS

Sixteen hundred pounds of meat are available for the combined ox-roast and carnival being planned as a feature of the Home-Coming Tuesday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, according to an announcement by I. M. Hyman, in charge of the event.

Captain George Flegley, Columbus, and a crew of eight men, arrived in Xenia Monday morning to make advance preparations for the feast. Captain Flegley is a professional in his line, having staged similar barbecues in all parts of the country.

He brought his own equipment, and expects to start cooking the meat at 4:30 a. m. Tuesday in order to insure it being ready for the evening.

Ten fatted calves have been led to the slaughter in preparation for the return of Greene County's prodigal sons.

Six professional vaudeville acts obtained from the Gus Sun Amusement Co., Springfield, will feature the carnival.

Everybody planning to assist at the ox-roast and carnival is asked to be at the athletic field Monday night at 6:30 o'clock to be assigned their places.

Following are the free vaudeville acts to feature the carnival:

Madame Barnard's Circus of three acts, featuring ponies, dogs, keys and a bear.

Morales Bros. and Daisy, an acrobatic and aerial feature.

Miss Hetty Cole, singing aerialist.

The Great Donola, two acts of slack wire exhibitions and comedy juggling.

CAR ON SPRING

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26.—Weary from many trips to and fro, a street car here, decided to go on a vacation. At a moment when the operator was giving it a loose rein it left the rails and careened madly along for a few yards before righting itself and veering into the curbing where a Ford had taken respite from its journey. No one was injured. The Ford was wrecked beyond repair.

a retail store ideal that made good

Every great business is the outcome of an ideal—often the ideal of some daring soul who abandons the beaten path for an untried way. James C. Penney conceived just such an ideal 26 years ago, when he undertook to operate a retail business in strict conformity with the principle of the Golden Rule—

To sell only soundly made merchandise—

To avoid "Sales" and set, instead, on each piece of goods a fair price that would remain the same from day to day—

To run a strictly cash-and-carry business, with the same uniformly courteous treatment to all.

Today, at your local J. C. Penney Company Store, you will find the self-same Golden Rule principles of the Company's founder being carried out fully. In addition, you will enjoy the advantages that our nation-wide organization makes possible—

The expert services of a staff of buyers—each a specialist in his or her line. These buyers are ever on the alert to secure the best possible values for you.

The economic distribution of goods brought about by supplying the needs of 1024 stores. This results in substantially reducing prices to you without any loss in the quality of the goods.

IT WILL WHIP PERFECTLY

EVAPORATED MILK

E BRAND

THE SAFEST FOR SUMMER USE!

"E" BRAND

Evaporated Milk

Because the evaporation process makes it absolutely free from germs but leaves all the sweet, natural flavor of the fresh milk, "E" BRAND EVAPORATED MILK is used on hundreds of tables during the hot months in preference to the quick souring fresh milk. Evaporation removes all of the water and other quick souring elements from the milk and concentrates the body-building, health-giving elements. It is entirely free from any "preserving" elements and is merely the richest of fresh, pure milk that has been evaporated to the degree that makes it safe for all uses. It is ideal for picnics, camping trips and summer outings.

turning to this surprising remedy for relief. A case of renewed health through the use of Konjola was recently described in a report received from Eliza Moore, Dowell Avenue, Xenia, while talking to the Konjola Man who is at Gallaher's Drug Store, this city.

"Konjola is the only medicine I could find that would relieve stomach and kidney troubles the way it did," said Mrs. Moore, "and I want to endorse this medicine and recommend that all my friends take it for it surely helped me."

"My entire system was in an awfully rundown condition. All the ailments I had made me so nervous I could not stand the least bit of excitement around me. My stomach was in an awfully disordered condition and in spite of everything that I would for it, the fits still kept on bothering me. Every meal gas used to form plump pit of my stomach causing me a full pain and at times double Co. 4 up. This gas, when rising from my chest and throat, would 18 at me something terrible. At these times my heart would flutter and palpitate so much that I thought it would stop beating. I was also subject to vomiting spells and when one of these attacks came on, I would have frightful headaches thereafter. These many ailments were sapping my weight and were awfully bad and caused me to be dizzy and nervous all the time. At night I could not rest properly but had to rise five or six times due to bladder weakness. The next morning when I got up I would feel tired and worn out."

"This was my exact condition before I found Konjola. One day a friend of mine suggested that I try Konjola. She had taken it and this medicine had done her so much good, that I decided to try it. But I never had much faith in it and just to please her started on the treatment. I had only been taking it for three days when I could notice a vast improvement over my whole body. It seemed to go right to the source of all my troubles and it cleansed my body of all poisonous matter that had long been a part of me. I kept on taking this compound and soon had taken a full treatment. Now, my stomach no longer bothers me. I can eat all the solid foods I like and not suffer the awful after effects. The gas never forms any more and my heart is back to normal. It surely is wonderful the way Konjola builds you up. My kidneys are well again and when I go to bed I sleep all through the night and never have to be always getting up. I feel fine now and can not help but praise Konjola.

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing
